BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Something of the importance of a cabinet selection may be attached to the announcement of a new business council.

While twenty men have been selected to serve under the leadership of Julius H. Barnes, who is chairman of the United States Chamber of Commerce, the group really reflects President Hoover's impression of how a representative group could be chosen from American business and industry.

While many trade associations and business are not directly represented on the committee of twenty, they will be called into a larger group of sixty or seventy to be subsequently announced.

The new business council, viewed by industry, is as follows:

Electrical industry—Represented by Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of the General Electric company and the Radio Corporation of America, as well as by Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company.

Investment banking—Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan and Co., American Bankers' association, Lewis Pierson, chairman of the board of the Irving Trust company of New York and Henry Robinson, president of the Los Angeles First National Trust and Savings bank, who was a member of the original Dawes committee in Paris.

Steel—Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the finance committee of the United States Steel corporation.

Railroads—Paul Shoup, president of the Southern Pacific railroad.

Copper—Cornelius F. Kelly, president of the Anaconda Copper Mining company.

U. S. OIL LEASE SUIT ADJOURNED TO MONDAY

Los Angeles—(AP)—Defense testimony will be resumed Monday following the weekend recess in the government's case against Edward L. Doheny and the Pan-American Petroleum company for cancellation of valuable leases held by the Doheny interests in the Elk Hills, Calif., naval oil reserve.

Questioned by the court yesterday regarding his failure to call Doheny to the witness stand, Norman Steery, chief defense counsel, representing the Richmond Oil company, which now controls Pan-American, said the multi-millionaire's explanation of the $100,000 he had sent to Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, was "not acceptable" to him and he "was not prepared to vouch for the credibility" of Doheny as a witness.

He said he also believed Doheny would stand on his constitutional rights and refuse to testify in any event.

Instead of the personal testimony of the multi-millionaire oil operator, Steery introduced the transcript of a previous oil lease trial in which the magnate testified he never had discussed with Fall the three Kern-oil leases the government now seeks to cancel.

The government charged that the leases were awarded as a result of a $100,000 bribe Fall recently was convicted of accepting from Doheny.

Thorne said a majority vote of the commission would be cast in favor of formally charging Davis with the accusations brought informally before the commission recently by John A. Quinn and the Developers' association, a political organization. Quinn's charges came after several policemen had been indicted on bribery charges.

Tokio—(AP)—The Japanese government today informed the Russian foreign office that Japan is not satisfied with scanty news concerning Japanese nationals in northwestern Manchuria, where Russian troops have occupied a wide zone of the Khingan mountains.

While an international train, carrying consular officers of several nations, rolled from Harbin toward the occupied zone where the officers hope to conduct a first hand investigation, Japan, through its embassy at Moscow, informed the Russian government that it considers general assurance of the safety of all Japanese as "inadequate." The Soviet government was further informed that details would be insisted upon in the future.

EARLY TRUCE EXPECTED IN COAL STRIKE

Nearly 100 Jailed in Illinois Area—Mines May Re-open on Monday

Taylorville, Ill.—(AP)—Prospects for a quick truce in the miners' strike affecting a half dozen coal mines and about 3,600 miners in this district appeared rosier today with nearly 100 accused leaders of the striking miners either in jail or held under bond.

Officials of the United Mine Workers' union, opposing the walkout called last Monday by the National Miners' union, rival organization, said they felt satisfied the surrounding coal fields would be back to normal by Monday with probably two or three of the mines involved expected to resume operations to some extent today.

The disturbance spread yesterday into the Belleville district where 59 pickets succeeded in keeping about 400 men from going to work at Lummig Mine No. 2.

Sixty warrants charging inciting riots and disturbing the peace remained today to be served on the strikers by the details of deputy sheriffs which have been sworn in. While five national guard companies, with a strength of some 200 men, were still stationed in the Christian-coal courthouse here, there was little on schedule for them to do. One detail was guarding the county jail where some 60 of the arrested strikers were held in quarters with only 13 available beds.

GUARDSMEN MAKE ARRESTS

Despite the military atmosphere which has permeated the coal fields, the guardsmen have been called on only two or three times, principally yesterday when a detail assigned to Peabody mine No. 8 near Elmhurst, west of here, took into custody 23 persons, 17 of them women and young girls, for refusing to disperse. Previously, guardsmen had arrested Freeman Thompson, one of the strike leaders, holding him in military custody for two days before turning him over to the sheriff under charges of inciting a riot and disturbing the peace. Thompson later was released under $2,400 bonds.

Calles Case Up To Texas Prosecutor

District Attorney Expected to Answer Threat in Effort to Hold General

Laredo, Texas—(AP)—The next word in the debate between the federal government and the state of Texas as to whether General Plutarco Elias Calles will face arrest when he passes through Laredo enroute to Mexico sometime next week was expected today from John A. Valis, district attorney here.

Valis yesterday deferred "until after Friday the 15th" his answer to a threat of the state department that Calles, former president of Mexico, who is now in New York, would be protected by armed force, if necessary.

The sheriff here has a warrant for Calles' arrest charging conspiracy in the deaths of Gen. Lucio Blanco and Col. Aurelio Martinez, whose bodies, handcuffed together, were found in the Rio Grande in 1922.

Official notice that the American government would use armed force to protect Calles was served on Valis by Richard Boyce, American consul at Nuevo Laredo, across the border, after the district attorney advised the secretary of state that Calles would need an official certificate attesting his diplomatic immunity. Calles already has a Mexican diplomatic passport vied by this government.

This advice was in a letter to the department of state which said in part that if Calles were able to produce "a certificate from the secretary of state under the great seal of the United States, attesting diplomatic immunity, he will be allowed to proceed unmolested."

Otherwise," the letter continued, "the law will take its course as in ordinary cases."

THREE QUIZZED IN RACINE ROBBERIES

Two Are Returned from Illinois—Both Held Under $25,000 Bonds

Racine—(AP)—Max Sumach and John Russett today were held under $25,000 bonds on charges of robbery while armed and were bound over to municipal court after valuing preliminary examination. They were returned to Racine yesterday after extradition was granted by Illinois authorities.

Police hoped to solve several robberies here by quizzing the men and Frank Konopka, also returned from Chicago a few weeks ago and an admitted accomplice. Konopka, police said, admitted holding up Ben Miller, real estate dealer and robbing him of a $1,500 diamond and $200 cash in his office recently. He implicated the other two in his confession. He is under $20,000 bond on a plea of guilty and awaits sentence.

Within the month, Racine has been in the grip of an epidemic of holdups and burglaries. More than 20 robberies were reported to police in that time. Local officials believed quizzing the Chicago men might unearth a gang responsible for the thefts.

WANTS U. S. DELEGATES AT HAGUE CONFERENCE

Washington—(AP)—Participation of the American government in a conference on international law to be held at the Hague beginning on March 13 was recommended to congress today by President Hoover.

The president requested an appropriation of $50,000 to pay expenses of American delegates. The conference will take up questions of nationality and territorial waters.

SOUTHERNER WON'T SERVE IN CONGRESS GROUP WITH NEGRO

Washington—(AP)—Representative J. Morgan Kousser, D-Miss., today announced he would not serve on a committee of the house until the distinction had to be shared with a Negro. Then he quit.

The southern Democrat presented his resignation from the committee on enrolled bills to Speaker Longworth late yesterday because Representative De Priest of Illinois, a Negro, had been made a member also. His withdrawal was accepted by the house.

Don't Translate Bible Too Literally, Instructor Advises--He's Fired

Lawrence Graduate Offered Two Positions for One He Quit in Alabama

Birmingham, Ala.—(AP)—A youthful college instructor whose home is at Lake Geneva, Wis., today had under consideration two offers of positions which followed his resignation from the faculty of Howard college, a Baptist institution here.

Dr. Horace Calvin Day, graduate of Lawrence college, left Howard yesterday at the request of Dr. John Dawson, president, because of remarks he had made regarding the Bible during recent chapel exercises.

Immediately thereafter, he was offered posts in the department of biology at Leland Stanford and Indiana universities.

His reference to the Bible was made in an address titled "Be Skeptical." In it he said to the student body, "We should not give a too literal translation of the Bible."

He added: "There are some people so ignorant they still believe Noah crowded two of each species of animals into the ark during the flood. How could he have got all those animals into the ark? During my years of biological experience, I have studied two kinds of whales and found it is impossible for either of them to swallow a man whole and, anyway, no man can live inside a whale. These references seem illogical, but God is logical."

He said he was not a member of any church, but that "I go to a minister occasionally regarding spiritual matters as I think a minister stands for the church."

Exception to his remarks was taken by Lee Gallman, a ministerial student.

SENATE NEAR FINAL VOTE ON TAX CUT

Couzens Amendment Providing Permanent Reduction Voted Down, 53-22

Washington—(AP)—The senate today rejected the Couzens amendment to the $160,000,000 tax reduction resolution which would have provided a permanent cut from 12 1/2 to 10 per cent in the tax on capital gains and losses beginning with taxes due in 1931. The proposal, made by Senator Couzens, Republican, Michigan, was voted down 53 to 22.

Passage before tonight will be indicated as the senate began its second day's consideration of the $160,000,000 tax reduction resolution today.

Senator Couzens, opposed the retroactive feature of the resolution which provides a reduction of 1 per cent only in the levies due next year on the normal individual and corporation incomes of 1929.

The proposed reduction was not a state as some senators had claimed, Couzens said, adding that every citizen who carried on a business this year did so under existing law.

He argued that no senator would approve a retroactive increase in taxes and asserted it was unsound to do this it was equally unsound to reduce taxes retroactively.

He described this feature of the resolution as "unconscionable" and said in no sense would it increase the purchasing power of the people at this time.

The "humane thing" for the administration to have proposed, he added, was to apply the $160,000,000 to relieving the unemployed.

FEARED CRITICISM

But this, he continued, would have brought criticism from every businessman and economist as an unsound proposition.

These same businessmen, however, he asserted were urging the people to buy beyond their means for the purpose of speeding up business, thereby leading themselves up with debts they would never be able to pay.

Condemning past tax reduction programs of the treasury, Couzens said a campaign had been waged for years for repeal of the estate tax, "by lobbyists supported and influenced by the Mellon family."

"But they have not been successful," said Couzens, "and I suspect the secretary hopes to get that result before he passes his estate on to posterity."

Replying to a series of questions from the Republican independents who are opposing the tax cut, the Michigan senator said he was "unjustified in opposing this resolution if it will and in getting some of 3,000,000 unemployed back to work."

"This periodic unemployment has to be solved," he continued, "although I don't think this tax cut is the most effective way to do it."

Huckins To Face Second U.S. Inquiry

Milwaukee—(AP)—Cleared of fraud charges only a few months ago, E. J. J. Huckins, "financial wizard" of Hancock, Wis., today faced a new inquiry into his mysterious business.

E. J. Koelzer, assistant United States district attorney announced that a federal grand jury is to investigate operations of the firm headed by Huckins and his son, George, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Midwestern investors, government officials have estimated, have placed three million dollars with Huckins who paid dividends of from 26 to 52 per cent.

"We have additional evidence," Koelzer announced, "at what time it will be presented I am unable to say. It will be presented the last case against Huckins, in September, when the final order won a dismissal of charges that he had used the mails to defraud."

At that time, the government sought to establish that Huckins was not in the cigar business, as he claimed. Koelzer had procured affidavits from leading cigar manufacturers, but was prevented from putting them in the record. He then announced that "we will call every cigar manufacturer in the country, if necessary," to disprove the Huckins claims.

CONFLICTING REPORTS

Newspaper reporters who have sought to discover the whereabouts of Huckins have received conflicting statements from those who are close to the "wizard." At Hancock, officers of the bank informed newspapermen that Huckins had not been

MUELLER AND REGIME WIN IN REICHSTAG

Vote of Confidence Among Most Difficult in History of Republic

Berlin—(AP)—The Reichstag today gave the Mueller government a vote of confidence, 222 to 154, supporting it in its policies both on the Young plan and financial reforms.

The government, which was severely criticized for its financial policies by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, had demanded that the Reichstag express confidence in the cabinet on the basis of the financial program recently outlined by Finance Minister Hülferding.

Today's decision was probably the most difficult arrived at by any coalition of the parties since the founding of the Weimar republic.

NONE SATISFIED

The government's financial program suits no party completely as it represents an inevitable compromise on views as widely apart as the socialists on the left and the Peoples party, which is chiefly made up of industrialists, on the right.

The approval, however, was held necessary for fear that chaos would be created or should the Reichstag be dissolved and new elections made necessary as was threatened by the ministry.

The government, in defending its program which calls for the reduction of taxes in some instances and increases in others, warned that should it be defeated the second Hague conference on working out the Young plan probably would be postponed indefinitely and that in the end of the Young plan itself would be jeopardized.

So great are the difficulties in the way of rallying the coalition parties behind the government that the Reichstag was compelled to adjourn at noon to enable the parties to smooth out last minute difficulties. The vote came this afternoon after the session had been resumed.

STRESEMANN SUCCESSOR

Berlin—(AP)—Ernest Scholz, floor leader in the Reichstag of the Free party has been elected to succeed the late Dr. Gustav Stresemann as the party's national chairman. Calling the national executive committee meeting to order today Prof. Wilhelm Kahl paid tribute to Dr. Stresemann, declaring among other things that Oct. 6, the day of his death, was a day of mourning for the entire world. Later the executive committee placed a wreath on Dr. Stresemann's grave.

Chairman Scholz was minister of economics in 1920.

HUNT SLAYER OF TENNESSEE WOMAN

Husband Questioned After Body of Wife Is Found in Arkansas

Marked Tree, Ark.—(AP)—The body of a woman found in a clump of bushes near here recently was identified today as that of Mrs. Beatrice Clatts, member of a prominent Negro family.

Her husband said she had been in Chicago two weeks and left here several days ago in an automobile for Memphis.

Officers said they believed the woman was killed in another section and that the body was brought near here in an automobile and then dragged to the isolated spot where it was found. The head was badly battered with a bullet wound in the side and one in the back.

Officers said they had learned Clatts and his wife had been separated several weeks which led him to take the Chicago trip. Mrs. Clatts was the mother of two children.

TO QUESTION HUSBAND

Memphis, Tenn.—(AP)—Police inspector Will Griffin announced here today that he would question Horace C. Clatts, railroad freight agent, in connection with the death of his 23-year-old wife, whose body he identified at Marked Tree, Ark., this morning. Clatts is being brought here by Arkansas authorities but is not under arrest.

Madison's City Dry Law Measure Goes To People

COUNCIL IN HOT DEBATE ON PROPOSAL

Referendum Voted When Aldermen Refuse to Pass Prohibition Ordinance

Madison—(P)—The common council of Madison voted 15 to 5 Friday night to submit Alderman George E. Gill's dry ordinance to the voters in the April election.

Alderman Gill, retired undertaker, voted against submitting it to a referendum after a motion to refer the ordinance back to the ordinance committee had been defeated. The refusal to refer followed the reading of letters from the W. C. T. U. First Congregational Church Guild, University Methodist church and Madison Women's club, urging immediate passage.

Speaking for precedence of his ordinance over a motion to submit it to referendum, Alderman Gill cited the need for it in view of repeal of the Severe state prohibition law. Children, he said, are delivering liquor in baby buggies near the west side depot of the Milwaukee railroad. He held it the duty of city officials to enforce the federal prohibition law. He said that at the last meeting the council had no one opposed to the ordinance and representatives of 19,000 citizens appeared in its favor.

ACCUSES COLLEAGUES
"I wish to say the three members of the ordinance committee who voted against it lacked the backbone to vote for it," he said. People opposing this law didn't have the nerve to come here and oppose it openly; they buttonholed these men on the side.

The chief of police says he has no authority to arrest persons for dry law violations, even when he sees men and women drinking and mixing drinks. I could talk for an hour on what I know.

"There are about 3,000 university freshmen here who are only children. We are not giving them the protection they deserve and the parents who pay taxes and fees for them to serve. We are allowing certain ones to put pitfalls in their way."

Alderman Joseph Rupp, former clerk in the university section, challenged Alderman Gill to "show a college cleaner than our University of Wisconsin. I don't like to see it attacked. I have a son at the university and I don't believe he has ever caught a dry law violation."

Alderman C. E. McCampbell said the proposed referendum will "not be fair because of influences which will be brought to bear," saying he would vote for immediate passage of the ordinance. Alderman Richard P. Doran said he could not see how the police would be expected to enforce the ordinance "if they can't do so in the city of a smaller size."

MAY HARM UNIVERSITY
He quoted University of Wisconsin authorities as saying that if his ordinance isn't passed, in five years it will not be a matter of turning students away from the university, but a problem of getting parents to send their children.

Alderman Gill criticized State Veterinarian C. A. Deamund, member of the council, for "wanting to take the teeth out of this law. He is connected through the state, with the university and should vote on this instead of refusing as he did the other night."

Mr. Deamund said he "drove 350 miles to get to this meeting. If I had not been interested I would not have come here." He said that the clause in the proposed ordinance allowing a person suspecting the presence of liquor in a neighbor's house to ask a judge for a search warrant would be used for spite work. He did not vote on the ordinance because of that and because he "didn't want to handicap or help the ordinance by making it a joint to three votes."

The city attorney replied that the city attorney had three explanations to Alderman Deamund that the ordinance provided for no search warrant on evidence of sale of liquor.

There was much further discussion before the votes were taken.

FATHER-IN-LAW CLASPS HANDS WITH GILLESPIE

Hollywood, Calif.—(P)—When Robert J. Thorne, Chicago millionaire, stepped into the modest little Hollywood home of his wife's ranch cowboy son-in-law, George Gillespie, and shook hands with the young fellow who eloped with his daughter last spring, he did something that still puzzled the newsweek today.

"In telling of the meeting last night both Mr. and Mrs. Thorne frankly said they 'hoped' that the handshake had meant that Thorne had wholly forgiven Gillespie for running away with Catherine from Phoenix, Ariz., and getting married after a courtship more or less typical of the wild west in action."

EXAMINE MEN NEXT WEEK FOR STATE JOB

Madison—(P)—Emerson E. La, head of Wisconsin Cooperative Tobacco pool, will call the civil service personnel board of the state Dec. 17 in examining applicants for the cooperative marketing superintendent's position in the department of agriculture and markets.

Ralph A. Peterson, Wood County agent, who was reported to be selected for the position even before the date for the examination was announced, said that at that time, had not applied for the examination, has now applied, according to the personnel bureau. His name is with the applications of approximately ten others.

SOLDIER REFIGHTS WORLD WAR BATTLES ON HOSPITAL BED

Bismarck, N. D.—(P)—When John Brazelot suffered a fractured skull in a traffic accident here more than a month ago his mental faculties slipped back to the World War period and he became a soldier again.

For weeks Brazelot fought battles in his delirium. And then the World War was over; he started the trek home, checking off the spectral miles of his daily progress. Finally he reached Bismarck, his destination—and returned to normal consciousness.

Hospital attendants revealed the strange story today after Brazelot had departed for his mother's home in Washington, D. C.

INDIAN COMMITTEE SEEKS LEGISLATION

Three Members of Menominee Tribe in Washington to Push Move

(Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent)

Washington—A Menominee Indian committee, consisting of Ralph Freidenberg, Peter La Motte, and Charles Frechette, is in Washington seeking legislation desired by the tribe.

The committee wants a per capita payment of $300 made to each of the Menominees, among other things. It is also seeking authorization to sue the government for alleged damages done to their timber resources by the way in which timber was removed from their property during the period from 1908 to 1926.

Legislation to permit them to incorporate the tribe is also sought.

The committee advocates a bill similar to that recently introduced by Senator Charles McNary of Oregon for the incorporation of the Klamath tribe of Indians.

Such a corporation would hold a property of the tribe, administer the laws pertaining to the tribe, exercise such police powers as are ordinarily exercised by a municipal corporation and such police powers as are delegated to it by the federal government relating to public health, morals, order, peace, safety and welfare, and the protection of property in the reservation. It could operate and maintain the assets of the tribe, and could sue and be sued. It could not sell tribal property outside the tribe.

The corporation would elect its own officers and directors, but, under the terms of the McNary bill, there would be a board of supervision consisting of one member to be named by the President of the United States, one member by the federal district court having jurisdiction over the tribe, and one member named by the corporation.

The committee has conferred with Representative George F. Schneider of Appleton and Florian Lampert of Oshkosh as well as the Indian affairs committees of the senate and the house of representatives.

BOARD OPPOSED TO FLOODING FIELD

Hampers Growth of Grass in Spring, Educators Point Out

Because flooding "slows up" the growth of grass in the spring, the board of education voiced its objection Friday night to the use of the graded portion of the athletic field at the corner of W. Superior and S. Outagamie for an ice rink.

The maintenance committee was authorized to dispose of the building on the First Ward school grounds. At present the building is being used for the janitor's home and for a storeroom, and as an election booth on election days.

A fire escape at the high school will be installed during the Christmas vacation and a general work shop for the repair of seats and other school equipment will be located in the old manual training department at the Jefferson school, according to the report of the maintenance committee.

The board authorized Superintendent B. J. Rohan and Principal H. H. Heible to attend the meeting of the joint committee of the legislature at Madison next week. The committee will discuss high school problems.

WHO'S PRESIDENT OF TRAFFIC COPS GROUP?

Stevens Point—(P)—Accustomed to appear frequently in court as complainant, A. N. Durand, senior traffic officer of Stevens Point, today found himself in the less pleasant role of defendant.

Attorneys for George S. Ives, mounted officer at Marshfield, said they had a replevin warrant on him to secure records in an attempt to determine who is president of the Wisconsin Mounted Traffic Officers' association.

Durand was elected to head the group at Wausau May 21 and insists that he is president.

On Nov. 22 Ives' attorneys say there was a meeting at Fond du Lac and Ives named president.

COMMITMENTS TO BADGER PRISONS SUDDENLY JUMP

State Board of Control Speculates on Possibility of "Crime Wave"

Madison—(P)—Commitments to the state prison and reformatory showed such an increase during October and November the state board of control is speculating on possibility of a "crime wave" previous to those two months.

The figures, revealed by a search through records of previous years following announcement of the November 30 inmate population of state institutions, brought no statement from the board office concerning an increase in crime, but speculation as to whether the unusual increase was caused by more persons being brought to justice, by a tendency on the part of courts to find a greater proportion guilty or merely unusual seasonal increase. It was explained that October and November are the end of November, 1928, to 930 at the end of November, 1929, to 993 in 1927, then to 1025 in 1928 and still greater increase to 1171 at the end of November, 1929.

State reformatory admissions likewise were up considerably over previous increases: October and November admissions there in 1926 were 64, making a total population of 476; in 1927 there were 83 making a population of 57; in 1928 there were 82 following a decrease in population to 55; and in the same two months of this year jumped to 105 persons entering the institution to push the total population suddenly to 649.

Further proof that the increase is above normal was revealed in the board's filed figures regarding population, cases in which persons were found guilty, sentenced and placed on probation, not entering either of the penal institutions.

CASES ARE NUMEROUS
Probation cases in October and November, 1928, totaled 334, in the same two months of 1927 were 409, in October and November, 1928, were 588, all approximately normal increases, with 737 placed on probation of the last two months and increase of 149.

There has been no change in the number of releases from the institutions. That is, paroles, pardons and expiations of sentences have not been reduced to such an extent that the total population figures would indicate an untrue increase.

So this table, showing total populations and probation totals for the same two months in each year, shows prison and reformatory convicts increased 827 for those two months alone, in four years:

	Oct. & Nov. 1926	Oct. & Nov. 1927	Oct. & Nov. 1928	Oct. & Nov. 1929
Prison admissions	920	993	1025	1171
Reformatory admissions	476	557	588	649
Probation sentences	334	409	588	737
	1720	1959	2183	2559
			minus	2780
				879

The inmate population report, which first revealed the increase in criminal convictions also revealed an increase this November 30 over last, in population in all state and county charitable and penal institutions, save for a decrease of 17 persons in state tubercular institutions.

State insane hospitals showed an increase of 117 in November 30 population; county insane hospital an increase of 341 over November 30, 1928; feeble minded state institutions an increase of 135 for the month-end comparison; state penal institutions an increase of 242, state schools an increase of 99, and county tubercular hospitals and sanatoria, 130.

Total figures for the report on inmate population showed 5,131 male and 2,197 female inmates, making 7,328 in the seven state institutions. Total bed capacity of the institutions was rated at 6,833.

MANY HUSBAND MURDERS REPORTED IN HUNGARY

Szolnok, Hungary—(P)—Husband murders on an extensive scale by middle-aged and older Hungarian women are being investigated by the government here. Bodies of more than 20 persons have been exhumed for examination.

Szolnok has but 40,000 inhabitants but a surprising number have been charged with participation in the murders which extend over some period of time and have involved not only the wives but other relatives.

The judge has received anonymous letters saying the murders still continue.

One of the accused who already has testified is Juliane Lipky, who is alleged to have murdered seven relatives including her mother, her husband and an uncle. She charged another woman, Lydia Oia, aided her.

A woman named Rosa Halybe is accused of killing two of her husbands. One of the accused women is 81 years old. One or two declared themselves innocent of murder but admitted administering poison in food.

Germany's tax reform problem is not expected to be settled for several months.

"Gets His Man" After 14 Years

Believe Key To American Prehistory Lies In Asia

BY OSCAR LEIDING
Science Editor
(Associated Press Feature Service)

Washington—(P)—The key to American prehistory lies not in Alaska but in Asia, in the belief of Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, Smithsonian anthropologist.

His contention supports a previous view that Mongoloid migration across Bering Strait was so easy it was untraceable, contrasting with a prevailing opinion that the Eskimo had a purely American origin.

Scant hope of uncovering even dim records of the first peak in central Alaska is given by the noted scientist, who traversed the Yukon river from source to mouth during the summer in search of archaic lore.

"Unless some most fortunate accident occurs," he said, "We shall never be able to find real ancient remains in the Yukon valley or delta, because the country has been remade by sea and river. Remains have been swept away by the water as it gnawed at the banks, or lie covered up in deep jungles or tundras."

Indirectly, however, through archaeological and other evidence, substantial steps have been made this year towards the solution of the problem of the origin of the Eskimo and his relation to the Indian.

The anthropologist returned with more than 60 boxes of material, one of the most striking parts of the collection being nearly 800 tools and objects in fossil ivory, belonging to a wonderfully rich and archaic old culture, discovered but a few years ago.

Light also may be thrown on the past by a double burial in a stone-lined grave, the oldest uncovered so far along the Yukon, and similar in type to some in northeastern Asia.

"Our material," Dr. Hrdlicka said, "is rich, but only careful study will show how important. The main achievement was to save for science much that would soon have been lost for all time."

"Smithsonian expeditions, while saving precious material and data from the American side of Bering sea, make more urgent an extension of the work in northeastern Asia. It is there, it is felt even more strongly, that the material and information he that will clinch indications obtained on the American side."

OTHER STATES ARE PAYING HIGHWAYS TO DRAW TOURISTS

More Surfaced Roads Needed in Wisconsin, Says Tourist Bureau

Madison—(P)—The Wisconsin State Tourist Bureau here, through its secretary-treasurer, O. R. Smith, revealed the amounts of paying in neighboring states, efforts and success of those states to attract tourists and contended that if it were not for the Chicago traffic entering Wisconsin the state would have seen a material decrease in its tourist business for 1929.

"One need not look far to determine why tourists are not coming into Wisconsin from the west and southwest," said Mr. Smith's statement.

"Minnesota has two well-managed, adequately financed bureaus informing tourist prospects in the west and south about vacation attractions of that state. Minnesota has all-weather through roads leading into her vacation country. Aside from 12 and its connections, completed this past fall, there are no permanently surfaced through highways on the Wisconsin side of the Mississippi. In Minnesota there are great stretches of concrete from Duluth nearly to the southern boundary, paralleling the Mississippi. Iowa is rapidly extending permanent highways to connect."

"The motorist has miles of concrete on the Minnesota side reaching into the Minnesota lake country, compared with blocks on the Wisconsin side which reach nowhere. With long, all-weather roads and the activity of the Ten Thousand Lakes, Greater Minnesota association, and the Minnesota Arrowhead association, which are letting tourists know what they can find in the state, these roads, is it any wonder tourists choose to head north on the Minnesota side of the Mississippi, and vacation in the Minnesota lake country, rather than take a chance on Wisconsin, which heretofore has offered them neither adequate through roads, nor adequate information."

DATA IS SUPPLIED
"Like Minnesota, Michigan appreciates that tourist prospects want information before deciding where to go, and the Michigan Tourist and Resort association and several other groups in the northern peninsula, and the Upper Peninsula Development bureau in Northern Michigan, see that information is supplied."

"All weather highways extend for most of the length of the lower peninsula, making it possible for visitors from the east who have already received full information from Michigan vacation bureaus, to drive easily from Mackinaw City, ferry across the straits, and pick up U. S. 2 into northern Michigan, without the bother of driving through Chicago. At the rate concrete is being laid on highway 2, a year or two will see a loop of permanent roads extending through Michigan into Minnesota and barely touching Wisconsin."

"The number of tourists coming into southern Wisconsin from Iowa and points beyond, decreased 60 per cent in 1928 over 1927. The number of tourists through the Minnesota gateways dropped off nearly 25 per cent. Tourists coming into the state from points in northern Michigan increased less than 8 per cent on the two-year period. On the highways leading from Chicago metropolitan territory was a material increase in automobile traffic indicated."

"The average number of automobiles per week coming into Wisconsin over all the roads checked by the highway commission was $3,167, per week in 1928, in contrast with $2,982 per week in 1927. This is an increase of 9,205 cars, or 11.5 per cent an increase of little more than 5 per cent a year. That is not so great a gain as it might seem, in view of the greatly increased traveling done by automobiles during the past several years."

"Of this total of $3,167 cars per week in 1928, 55,297 came into the state over highways 15, 41, 53, 12 and 89, from the Illinois line. This is 62 per cent of the grand total of Wisconsin's tourist trade. In 1927 the total traffic over these five highways was $3,613 per week or $5.5 per cent of the total last year. The increase of 48 per cent in traffic from the Illinois line was all that saved Wisconsin's tourist record."

Suzanne Lenglen Acts As Saleswoman In Paris Shop

Paris—(P)—Suzanne Lenglen, famous tennis star, is working as a saleswoman in a small dressmaking establishment here. Her job is selling, demonstrating and giving advice on sport clothes.

"I have always wanted to do this very thing," she said today. "I adore clothes. I am through with tennis for the time being at least. I hope to make lots of money. Baldwin? Leave him out of this. He has nothing to do with it."

The latter remark was in answer to a question concerning the grandson of E. J. (Lucky) Baldwin to whom she has been reported engaged at various times.

Madeleine Lenglen is probably the highest paid saleswoman in the Paris shops. She refused to say what she was making, but it is understood to be a sizable salary plus commissions. An outdoor saleroom and a combination tennis court and putting green are being fitted for her in the courtyard of the dressmaking establishment which once was the palace of Cardinal Fesch, the uncle of Napoleon.

The famous star said that she had moved her household belongings to Paris and with her mother intends to make her permanent home here. Her father died at Nice last March. At the establishment where Madeleine Lenglen is employed, it was said her new job was a first move to reestablish her in her amateur status which she forfeited in 1925 when she joined C. C. Pyle's professional tennis team.

JAPS AND CHINESE FACE NEW QUARREL

Appointment of Minister to China Creates Unpleasant Situation

Tokio—(P)—Possibility of an unpleasant Sino-Japanese incident in connection with Tokyo's intention to appoint Toruichi Ohsa, former ambassador to Turkey, as minister to China. The Japanese government asked Chinese approval of the appointment last week and not having received a satisfactory response has instructed the Japanese consul at Nanking to press for an early reply.

Dispatches from China report considerable opposition to Ohsa, who was charge d'affaires at Peking in 1915 and was prominently concerned in Japan's famous 21 demands on the Chinese government at that time. Unofficial advice from Nanking said President Chiang Kai-Shek was preoccupied with Chinese internal dissension to grant assent to the appointment. This was discounted at Tokyo.

Although official Japanese comment has been confined to admission that the situation is "delicate," there is considerable anxiety lest difficult complications develop.

WANT TO SPEED UP POSTOFFICE WORK

Congressman Schneider Will Visit With U. S. Attorney on Way Home

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent)

Washington—In an effort to speed up beginning of the new Appleton post office, Representative George J. Schneider of Appleton will confer with the United States district attorney in Milwaukee on his way home for the Christmas holidays.

Plans for the building cannot be started by treasury architects until after all the legal details of clearing up the title for the site are completed. It is on this aspect of the situation that the congressman will confer with the district attorney in Milwaukee to get prompt action on the titles.

Once this detail is completed, Representative Schneider will make every effort to have the architects complete the plans as soon as possible so that bids for construction can be invited, the contract awarded, and construction started early in the spring.

All such work is being speeded up by President Hoover's plans for intensifying government public works to stabilize business conditions.

GENERAL WEATHER

The low pressure area which was centered over the Mississippi Valley yesterday morning has moved northward and now covers the upper St. Lawrence Valley. It has brought cloudy weather with showers to the northeastern part of the country and the lakes. High pressure over central Canada has brought falling temperatures to the upper lakes and upper Mississippi Valley, but warmer weather prevails in the western part of the country, due to a deep "low" which is moving in over the north Pacific coast. Cloudy and unsettled, with little change in temperature, is expected in this section tonight and Sunday.

Facts About City Manager Government

In this article on city operation costs in Janesville and Appleton and a comparison of the services offered the people by the two cities, an effort will be made to summarize the information that had been given in previous articles.

Perhaps the simplest and most understandable method of comparing city figures in Appleton and Janesville is to set 1929 figures in parallel columns so they can be readily compared. Here is one tabulation:

	Appleton	Janesville
Estimated population	25,000.00	24,000.00
Assessed valuation	$2,451,925.00	$3,202,275.00
Ratio of assessed value to true value	60 per cent	79.15 per cent
Date of assessment based on assessed value	32.00	22.00
Rate of assessment based on true value	29.10	17.42
Assessment on $10,000 home	6,000.00	7,915.00
Taxes paid on $10,000 home	210.00	174.20
Revenues besides real estate and personal property taxes	1,170,925.00	684,004.00
Total revenue	454,225.00	234,250.00
Cost of schools, county and state tax over which city has no control	$35,500.00	475,050.00
Bond principal and interest to be paid next year	73,000.00	104,700.00
Sum left for disposal of council or manager	745,337.00	341,029.00

These figures will indicate that next year the city manager of Janesville will have approximately $497,000 less to spend for all city purposes over which the manager has control than the mayor and the city council of Appleton will have at their disposal.

TELL MAILERS HOW TO SEND PERISHABLE GOODS

With the advent of the holiday season, postal officials again are anxious that mailers of perishable parcels send it special delivery. According to postal regulations it is necessary for postal employees to deliver all perishable parcel post, marked special delivery, and the messenger must collect the special delivery fee from the recipient. Postmasters and postal clerks, particularly at parcel-post windows, have been instructed to advise mailers of perishable parcels that such parcels should be sent special delivery when it appears that the ordinary course of transmission through the mails they will arrive at office of destination on Saturday afternoons, Sundays or holidays.

Arkansas Torture Murder Case Up For Trial Next Week

IDENTITY OF YOUTH STILL IS IN DOUBT

Fiancee and Friend of Connie Franklin Deny Claim—ant Is Missing Man

Mountain View, Ark. —(P)—Prosecuting Attorney Hugh Williamson announced today that he will request a court order for the physical examination of the youth claiming to be Connie Franklin, mountain farm hand, for whose purported murder five men are scheduled to go on trial here Monday.

Mountain View, Ark. —(P)—Tharied in their many attempts to establish beyond dispute the identity of a youth who says he is Connie Franklin, state and defense attorneys will submit the question next week to a jury, which will hear testimony against five men accused of torturing and murdering Franklin to death. A term of circuit court has been called for Monday.

Tiller Rummier, 16, who said Franklin was slain by a band of nightriders while she and the farm hand were on their way to be married and Rueben Harrell, a deaf mute and reputed eye witness to the killing, have denied that the young man is Franklin.

The latest attempt at identification brought a denial from Coleman Foster, who said he was the best friend of Connie Franklin before his mysterious disappearance from the St. James community that the youth here is the man he knew by that name.

A few hours later, seven persons who said they knew Franklin before he came to the St. James community "positively" identified the youth as "Franklin." Among them were a Mr. and Mrs. Saterfield of O'Neil near here, at whose home they said Franklin stopped on his way to St. James.

Handwriting experts are among the 15 witnesses summoned for the trial of the five men charged with murder. The accused men are Elbert Hester, Herman Reenway, Bill Younger, Joe White and Alex Fulk.

The experts will be asked to compare the handwriting in a letter written by a Connie Franklin to the State Hospital for Nervous Diseases at Little Rock and that of the youth who says he is Connie Franklin. The writer of the letter, according to hospital attaches, was a former inmate of the hospital but the youth here denies he ever was a patient in the institution.

ACCUSES FORMER WIFE OF ATTEMPT TO MURDER

Los Angeles —(P)—Mrs. Helen Lois Andrade, 66, was held here on a charge of assault to commit murder, sworn to by her former husband, Albert A. Andrade, millionaire rancher of Arizona and Mexico.

The arrest followed Andrade's report last night that his former wife fired five shots at him, his present wife, Mrs. Judith Lavender Andrade, and their six-week-old baby.

Police were called to Andrade's home by Mrs. Mary E. Warren, widow of the late Walter Warren, United States consul to Honduras. Mrs. Warren is the mother of Mrs. Judith Lavender Andrade. Mrs. Warren insisted after placing the call and was treated at a hospital.

Andrade said his former wife ambushed him at his home. He said she recently lost a suit to obtain half his property through a superior court suit. She obtained the divorce 12 years ago. He married Judith Lavender, daughter of John Lavender, the late shipping magnate, six years later.

INDEPENDENT THEATRE MEN APPEAL TO BLAINE

Racine —(P)—After a conference with independent motion picture exhibitors here, Mayor William H. Armstrong was to leave today for Washington, D. C. to lay the case of the independents before Senator Blaine and the trade commission with the hope of halting "unfair discrimination and competition" in the leasing of motion pictures.

The local theatre owners say they will be forced to shut their doors Jan. 1 unless action is taken to assure them never pictures. They contend that the chain theatres in Racine have a monopoly on first run productions and that they are unable to obtain pictures until they are from six to nine months old. "Trade relations," they say, are leaving the local owned theatres to attend and support chain-operated plants.

Badger Briefs

Ashland —(P)—Edward Lebedal admits that he is his brother's keeper—but he didn't keep his brother's money in the bank. He was bound over for trial yesterday after a guilty plea to charges that while the Rev. Frank was working in the west he withdrew $1,500 of Frank's funds from to banks.

TRAVELING BAGS STOLEN

Racine —(P)—A burglar who evidently was going someplace last night entered three residences and obtained two traveling bags for packing purposes. He packed them with three suits stolen.

SHED AND CAR BURN

An explosion set fire to the buildings, destroying it and the car. Damage was estimated at $1,500.

The Oldtimer Asks...

DO YOU REMEMBER WHEN?

Charley Gause kept the A. I. Smith lawn and grounds like a park? Birge and Rowell and Woodward operated the farm implement works known as the Appleton Manufacturing Company on the river about south of the court house?

Atkinson operated a chair factory on West Canal?

Will Hutchinson was manager of the Appleton Woolen Mills? Charlie Brickland, Elizabeth Miller, Grace Carhart, Kitty Steele, Charley Schuetzler, Will Dewitt, Al Johnson, Fred Banter, Guy Babcock, were drawing pay from Pettibones?

St. Shannon was delivering groceries for Brunk's store at College Ave and Lawest?

D. B. Bailey had a C. O. D. store and the Bailey boys said C. O. D. meant "Call on Dad?"

Huckins To Face Second U.S. Inquiry

at his home there for the past three weeks. Last night Mrs. Huckins told reporters that her husband was ill and "didn't care to see anyone."

Government sources revealed that internal revenue agents who have investigated Huckins for taxation purposes have been unable to find any business and their report was that he has no taxable income. The on-ly records Huckins has of his business is a ledger on a west coast trip showing the names of his investors, the amounts received and the interest paid.

While reports came from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, for a suit instituted by one of Huckins' "investors" to recover funds alleged to have been "invested" with the "wizard," R. M. Bates, postal inspector, Milwaukee, revealed a letter today from a California man. The man wrote he met the latter on a west coast trip and that Huckins told him he made vast sums in "the cigar-jobbing business" and "consented" to take $1,050 for "investment."

The man said Huckins gave him the customary 60-day option which permitted him to withdraw his money.

Before the 60 days expired, adverse publicity concerning the venture caused the man to have apprehensions, he wrote, and he demanded his money returned. That was Sept. 13, he said. The money was due, he stated, on Nov. 19.

He has not, he wrote the inspector, received either his money or a reply from Huckins.

IDENTIFY ALL CONVICTS WHO TOOK PART IN RIOT

Auburn, N. Y. —(P)—The list of the group of convict mutineers who took part in Wednesday's outbreak at Auburn prison has been identified by investigating officials, it was announced today, and now faces indictment and trial for murder in connection with the killing of Principal Keeper George A. Durnford during the mutiny.

Ben Kenyon, district attorney of Cayuga co., said he did not think it advisable at this time to disclose the identity of the mutineers, nor would he state how many indictments would be asked. Warden Edgar S. Jennings had previously estimated that about 15 convicts took part in the mutiny. Of these, eight were killed, so it was assumed that at least seven cases would be presented to the grand jury.

Seven guns remained unaccounted for today and investigating officials pressed their intensive search for the weapons, meanwhile announcing that all convicts would be confined to their cells until the guns had been found.

NEWLY WED TELLER IS ARRESTED FOR THEFT

Dubuque, Iowa —(P)—Lawrence Bailey, 28, husband of one month, was arrested yesterday accused of misappropriating $5,275.10 while a teller in the Iowa Trust and Savings bank.

He was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging misappropriation. His recently organized motor company was placed in the hands of a receiver at the instance of the bank, which places its total shortages at $61,000. The entire amount is covered by insurance, bank officials said. Bailey was married Nov. 14 and the shortages were discovered while he was on a honeymoon. On his return, bank officials said he admitted them.

Justice of the Peace Thomas M. Barrett, who issued the warrant for Bailey's arrest, said that bonds for his release would be set at not less than $10,000.

THEDA BARA, ONCE FAMOUS VAMPIRE, TRYING COMEBACK

Modern Sex Sophistication Does Not Lessen Appeal of Old Type, She Says

BY GENE COHN

New York—Today the dripping elevated tracks of Third Avenue, and eastward where the Ghetto approaches the river, the "come-back" of Theda Bara has begun.

It has begun as humbly as that of any unknown—in the tryout houses of the RKO vaudeville circuit, with rain-soaked banners announcing that "the original vampire appears in person." In such theaters the "audience reaction" is tested and acts get a chance to whip into shape before moving uptown to be viewed by the critics and seasoned players.

And the greatest of the sirens must make the rounds with the rest—with the lead and the indifferent, most of whom will never see their names in the big lights. For some years have slipped by since "the vampire" sat on the peak of the cinema Olympus, a reigning queen of the silent drama. Even the word "vampire" which came so much into vogue has all but slipped from usage.

CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS

But Miss Bara does not mind. She has great faith in her public and in her characters. Nor is her return based on any necessity, other than that of an urge to return to the limelight.

She is comfortably married to Charles Brabin, one of the better Hollywood directors; she has a typical filmhand show place in the Beverly Hills.

"It's that I'm tired of the routine of Hollywood life—teas and bridge and small talk and running around. So I decided to return to the theater," she explains.

Theda, who is even more slender than in yesteryear, by the way, is doubtless aiming at the new talking pictures.

STILL A REAL VAMPIRE

The speaking stage is now accepted as one of the short cuts into the new Hollywood. But meanwhile, Miss Bara insists on keeping the old vampire-dire and struggle in human casualties was an unforgettable lesson.

(2) That every power is hoping to avert similar human wastage in future wars through mechanization of its armies.

The gasoline engine was the greatest contribution of the age to peaceful human pursuits which saw it brought to perfection. Now, the gas engine is the instrument with which military scientists everywhere are seeking to cut the blood cost of future wars.

Whether it be in combat ships at sea, or air, or in tank fleets on land, in means of transport for men or guns or supplies, always the effort to write the lessons of the great war in modern equipment to meet any future war emergency revolves about gas engines.

France, backing up her powerful air fleets, maintains, ready for instant service, more than 2,000 tanks. England has spent and is spending millions on army mechanization.

The United States has more than 1,000 of these crawling, deadly monsters of the battle field. German engineering ingenuity is busy with tank designs, tanks she may not build under the peace treaty and studying anti-tank devices. Even soviet Russia is straining her overworked automotive factories to produce experimental land battleship models.

In the United States, with the rolling bulwarks of the Atlantic and Pacific to guard from overnight invasion, no effort to modernize the war built tank equipment has been made. Instead a dozen or less new designs in fast tanks have been turned out for experimentation.

The war built tanks are scattered with troops, or at army schools, or rusting in dead storage. Military experts rely upon the vast automotive industry of the nation to provide quickly, should need ever arise, fleets of modern tanks to support and lead the battle lines.

She's as Vampish as Ever

The years have made little change in Theda Bara, who is pictured here. She's as slim, as attractive, as "vampish" as ever.

Military Publications Have Things In Common

Washington —(P)—Scan the technical military publications of any big nation a decade and more after the close of the world war and two things common to them all will leap to the eye.

(1) That the ghastly cost of that struggle in human casualties was an unforgettable lesson.

(2) That every power is hoping to avert similar human wastage in future wars through mechanization of its armies.

DEAD PHEASANT FOUND IN MARSTON SAND PIT

A dead pheasant bearing a state band numbered 1,196 was found in a sand pit in the Marston Brothers Co. yard Friday afternoon by Roy Marston. The head was missing, and it is believed the bird was killed by either a Cooper's or sharp-shinned hawk, according to sportsmen.

The bird was one of several planted last September by the Kaukauna Game club on a reserve about a mile north of Kaukauna. Cooper's hawks attack pheasants and eat the head, sportsmen say.

THEFT OF SHERIFF'S MOTOR-METER LEADS TO ARREST OF "GANG"

The "gang" of automobile motor-meters was rounded up about 5 o'clock Friday afternoon by Sheriff Fred Giese and Lother Kemp, deputy sheriff, in the courthouse yard. Eight new motor-meters valued at between $50 and $75 were found in the possession of the "gang," composed of two small boys, 5 and 6 years old.

The hunt for the "gangsters" was started about 4:15 in the afternoon when Sheriff Giese found that his car was minus a new motor-meter. During the past few months many complaints have been received around the courthouse that motor-meters had been stolen.

When questioned by Sheriff Giese the youngsters stated that they were selling the auto accessories for $1 each to a junk man. Sheriff Giese is investigating in an attempt to find the buyer.

NOTED PILOT BUYS SECOND NASH CAR

Twin-ignition Eight Is Purchased by Col. Arthur C. Goebel

Col. Arthur C. Goebel, one of Uncle Sam's foremost aviation pioneers, transcontinental record holder and winner of the famous Dole air derby, sees America's gigantic automobile industry in the light of a vitally important proving ground for future air conquests, as well as the world's industrial giant.

Direct cooperation between automobile engineers and a closer relationship between the two kindred industries are essential to aviation progress and the building of air safety, he declared here after ordering his second Nash Twin-ignition Eight car, and while making a tour of inspection of the precision lines which create the latest Nash mechanical achievement.

Col. Goebel made a swift air-rail trip from Los Angeles to Nash headquarters, bringing with him specifications for the new, chromium plated wire wheel equipment and the special color scheme and finish to be worked out on the new "400" Twin-ignition Eight Cabriolet, which he plans to use on a bear hunt in Mexico after an overland run to his aviation school in Kansas City and before returning to his research work on the west coast. He attended the national convention of the American Petroleum Institute in Chicago following his visit with Nash officials.

"Both the automobile and aviation industries are working toward the same end—improved world transportation," he told Nash engineers. "I have never been more impressed with the vast facilities for mechanical development and constant motor improvement that the modern automobile manufacturing plant affords than I have been during this tour through your laboratories, test grounds and production line. It is significant that the Nash plant is one of only two American automobile factories I have studied, although mechanical advancements such as can be seen here on every side are most important in furthering the work of anyone interested in engineering of any sort."

"There are so many points of mutual interest between automobile and aviation engineers that the findings of either industry have a direct bearing on the other. For example, both forces are working toward fuel economy, the increasing of engine power and the reduction of engine weight. The Nash twin-ignition principle so successfully applied to the high compression, valve-in-head motor is a development which has become a standard in the finest airplane motors. Now the Nash application of aluminum alloy connecting rods, aluminum alloy pistons, hollowed crank pins in the new nine-bearing, counterweighted crankshaft and other strides made in lightening the motor's reciprocating parts are directly in line with air motor progress."

"Similarly the constant improvement in aviation motors is a great aid to automobile engine development. We are particularly interested now in the success of the newly developed variable pitch and reversible propellers. This reversible propeller, controlled from the cockpit of a plane, not only reduces the space required for landing a ship by more than thirty three per cent, but also utilizes all of the power developed by the ship's motor in the take-off and in gaining altitude. Another development of mutual interest is the electric starter which now turns over a 400-horsepower motor with a minimum amount of electric power. I am led to believe that both automobile and aviation engineers are wasting valuable findings by lack of cooperation, and would like to see a research association formed with men actively engaged in both industries as its members."

Col. Goebel, long an enthusiastic

MOTORISTS CAREFUL WHEN BUYING TIRES

Caution Gives Them Greater Service, Miller Dealer Holds

In spite of the growing number of automobiles on the road, experts report that fewer tires are being sold in relation to the amount of driving done.

This too is in spite of the fact that most motorists now drive further and longer than ever before.

Putting the story in figures, we learn that where each can ten years ago wore 4 tires per year, it now needs but 2 new tires.

There are of course definite reasons for this.

"One is that tires are being made better, but a more definite reason is attention to the tires they buy," says Mr. Schoultz, local distributor for Miller tires.

"Motorists have found that the difference in price between an unknown tire and a rationally known make is only slight, while the difference in wearing qualities is generally considerable."

"Now that every state has its share of good roads so that motoring in all sections of the country is much the same, more and more tire business is going to firms with a known reputation for dependability and quality. Reflecting this, Miller Geared-to-the-Road tires are becoming more and more popular."

Nash "400" owner, purchased one of the first Twin Ignition Eight cars shipped to Los Angeles for the use of his mother. He plans to use the new Eight Cabriolet with its handsome special equipment for all ground transportation in connection with his work.

MONTH PRODUCTION RECORD BROKEN BY CHEVROLET OUTPUT

900 Cars and Trucks More Turned Out Daily Than for Last Year Period

All October production records in the history of the Chevrolet Motor company were broken with an output of 88,915 cars and trucks, it was announced at the central offices here today.

Compared with the output of 65,032 units for October of last year, the 1929 October manufacturing volume shows a gain of more than 20,000 units. It indicates an increase of more than 900 cars and trucks a day over the showing for the corresponding month of a year ago.

Chevrolet's record October performance brings output up to 1,275,777 units as of November first. This is more cars than Chevrolet has ever built in an entire year and is nearly five times the number of any other six cylinder car built in an entire year.

Due to the continued high demand Chevrolet plants are worked on the biggest November schedule on record.

An indication of the volume of business that Chevrolet is doing nationally is seen in the report for the last ten days of October which shows a gain of 49 per cent over the corresponding period of last year. The figures for the period are 26,549 for the last ten days of this October as compared with 17,829 for the corresponding period of 1928.

DODGE SALES ARE GAINING RAPIDLY

Increase in Spite of Recent Slump in Stock Market, Says Company

Retail sales of Dodge Brothers motor cars throughout the United States during the past six weeks have shown an increase each week over the preceding week and a net total increase of 35.64 per cent for the period.

"In view of the impression held by many persons that general business was following in the wake of declining stock quotations, these sales figures are particularly interesting at this time," said C. W. Matheson, general sales manager of Dodge Brothers in commenting on the encouraging record.

"This steady increase in retail sales, day after day and week after week during the same period that stock quotations were sinking lower and lower, in my judgment, forms about the best possible proof that the present soundness of business conditions throughout the country does not reflect what has been transpiring on the stock tickers," Mr. Matheson continued.

"Surely such a record amply substantiates the fact that this country still has every business advantage that it had on September 1, before the stock market conflagration. Manufacturers and merchants producing and handling marketable merchandise, rightly priced, can sell their products today as well as at any time in the past. The figures from our nationwide dealer organization during the past six weeks prove this statement to be a fact."

Fastened to the tops of the two forward uprights was a plank, on which the wheels of the plane rested. The tail slid rested on a bracket attached to the rear upright. The wheels were fastened to the plank by a coupling so arranged that it could be released by the pilot of the plane by pulling a string.

The engine of the plane was just above the engine of the automobile, the propeller whirling in front of the automobile radiator. With both engines roaring, the Hudson started down the beach and in about half a mile had attained speed of fifty-two miles an hour. Krapich then shoved his stick forward and brought the tail of the plane up off the bracket.

He then pulled the string to disconnect the wheels and the plane rose.

SUGGESTS NEW CAR FOR YULE PRESENT

Several Million Families Expected to Celebrate in This Manner

All worries regarding Christmas presents can be banished and the entire family, pleased by the purchase of a new automobile as a joint Christmas present, according to Mr. Berry, Oldsmobile-Viking dealer at 742 W. College Ave.

He says: "There will be several million families who will purchase new automobiles next year and it is safe to say that many of these families would be made happier if they found the new car standing in front of their door Christmas morning instead of having to wait until several months later. Knowing automobiles, the families appreciate the pleasure of driving a new, modern car in the winter owing to its ease of starting and the additional comfort it affords."

"The gift of an automobile is equivalent to continuing Christmas throughout the year, for there is no other present which is used and appreciated the entire twelve months as is a good car. Every day it provides useful service or opportunities for pleasure and recreation for the family."

"There are three large groups who would appreciate a new automobile as a holiday gift. They are those who have no car at the present time; those who have a car which has seen several years service; and those who have a good car but require a second car for family use."

"The last named, those who have one car really need two, is growing rapidly and, no doubt, would be among the most enthusiastic receivers of a new car for Christmas. This class consists of those where the husband and father has to use the car for business and leaves the family practically marooned six days a week. The family can say that they have an automobile, but they possess one only evenings and Sundays."

"The idea of giving an automobile as a family Christmas present has been spreading during the past few years and has found favor wherever it has been tried. We are prepared again this year to play the part of Santa Claus and deliver an Oldsmobile or Viking, holly wreath attached to the front door on Christmas morning."

The Oldsmobile "6" and the Viking "8" are sold and serviced by the Berry Motor Car Co., located at 742 W. College Ave.

FORD IS REPAIRED AFTER 26,000 MILES

Average Cost of Operation for This Model A Is 2.7 Cents a Mile

After 25,922 miles of driving a Model A Ford Tudor sedan, Motor No. 1,241 has been given its first mechanical repair by its owners, Bass and Company of Hopkinsville, Kentucky. To date, the cost of operation has been 2.7 cents a mile, including depreciation, gas, oil, tires, washing, greasing, punctures, storage and all other items charged to the car.

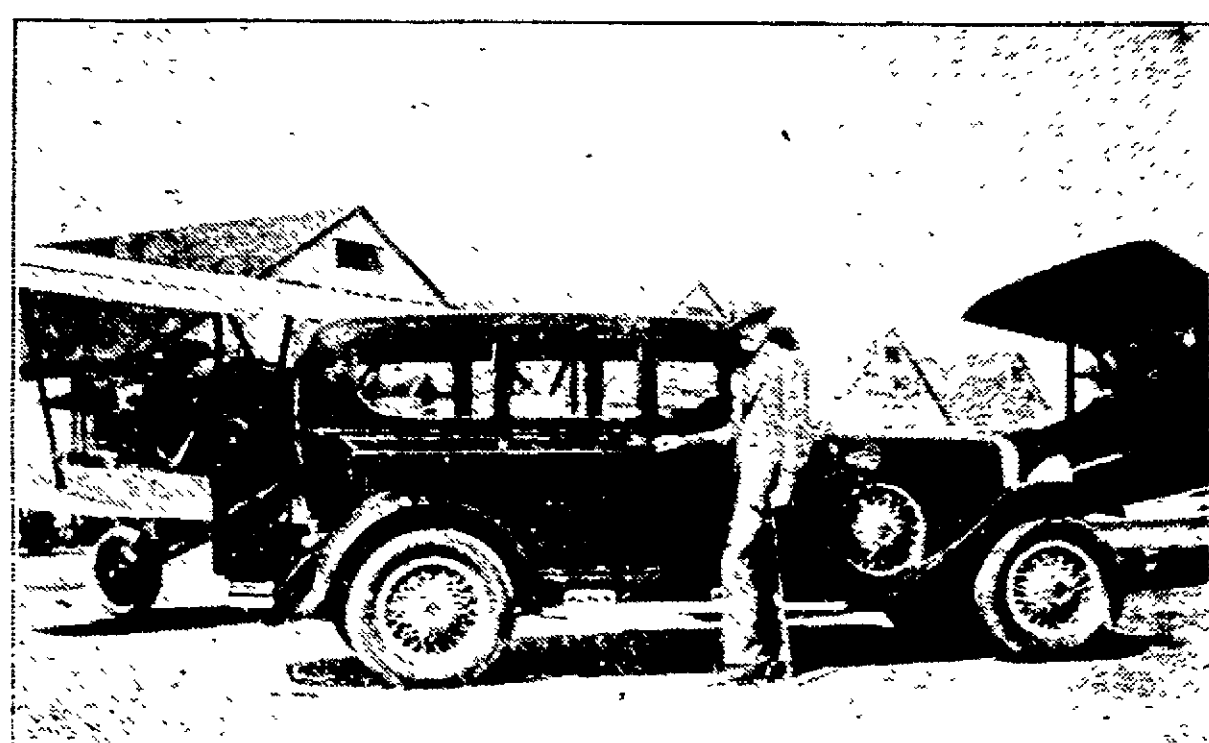

The nearest record to that made by the Model A was 4.6 cents a mile made by a four-cylinder car of another make also owned by this company. All the cars in the company's fleet are now being replaced with Model A's.

A Model A Ford phaeton, driven by F. L. Prillaman, made 42.5 miles on a gallon of gasoline in a test put on by the Rockingham Auto Corporation of Leaksville, North Carolina. All gasoline was drained from the tanks and carburetors of competing cars, after which one gallon of gasoline was put into the tank of each. The tank opening was then sealed and the cars lined up for the test. The route of each was the same—from Leaksville to Reidsville and return, thence toward Martinsville via Ridgeway. As each car ran out of gas the judges examined the seal and checked the mileage. Other Ford cars made the following mileages in the same test:

Tender 33.4 miles to the gallon Coupe 38.6 miles to the gallon Sedan 36.5 miles to the gallon Truck 35.5 miles to the gallon

Hydraulic Brake Principal

In the scientific law that pressure exerted upon a fluid enclosed in a vessel is transmitted equally in all directions, lies the efficiency of hydraulic brakes used on Dodge Brothers cars. Here the principal is demonstrated by squeezing water in a rubber glove, showing equal pressure to all fingers. The exposed brake mechanism has a cylinder at the top which expands the brakes when hydraulic pressure is transmitted from the master cylinder by the brake pedal. Equal braking pressure is thus insured on all four wheels.

The Hudson car, equipped with two uprights from the running board, extending six inches above the top and another upright from the tire carrier, was furnished by the Henley Kimball Company of Boston.

PRISONS OLD AND OVERCROWDED IN NEW YORK STATE

Baumes Law Fills Cells Faster Than They Can Be Emptied

By LEMUEL F. PAITON
Copyright, 1929, By Cons. Press
Author, N. Y.—When the bodies of seven slain convicts lay in a row in the ice glazed prison yard, James Baumeister, 19, and Stephen Sprary, 22, were among them. Norvilles in crime, they had found in this, as in any prison, bitter and hopeless men for their daily companions. They had caught from them the infection of hatred and despair. They had learned and carried them and had died with them in Wednesday's blast of cold wind and rain.

Warden Edgar S. Jennings had fully realized the necessity of isolating desperate prisoners. But in this ancient, mouldy and overcrowded building, he was helpless. He had on place to put them. He was driven to day expedients, rather than constructive penology. He foresaw this bleak and virtually hopeless future in an address at the Zonta club in Syracuse two weeks ago. After the five mad prison revolts of the last six months, these stark, shattered bodies give testimony of the state's inadequacy.

NEED MORE PRISONS
In 1924, New York state prisons were releasing annually 560 more prisoners than they received. In 1925, when the Baumes laws became operative, these figures were reversed, and this year the prisons receive 560 more convicts than they release. At this rate, the state would have to build one sizeable prison a year to take care of its rapidly increasing convict population.

This writer to-day found evidence, in contradiction of the assertion of Sergeant George H. Sullivan, acting warden, that the prison plan was hatched within the ranks of the Mutual Welfare association. While the ill was clamped tightly on all official discussion one prison official was found who emphatically denied the participation of league members.

"The league leaders quickly gathered their men and marched them to the north wing and held them there," he said. "I have watched the influence of the league steadily, and I am convinced that it is safeguarding and stabilizing influence, rather than an incitement to disorder. The Welfare League association, not a prison organization, but composed of prominent and reputable citizens throughout the state, co-operates with the league. Members of this association, who are not sentimentalists, but earnest workers for the betterment of the state, will bear me out when I say that the most disastrous after math of this outbreak would be an attack on the league."

THE STUDIES CRIME
Charles D. Osborne, mayor of Auburn, and son of Thomas Mott Osborne, has followed in his father's footsteps in his devotion to prison reform. Mr. Osborne was an intensive study of crime and criminals, not only at Auburn, but elsewhere. He was asked what he believed to be the causes of the prison unrest, culminating here in a fifth savage revolt.

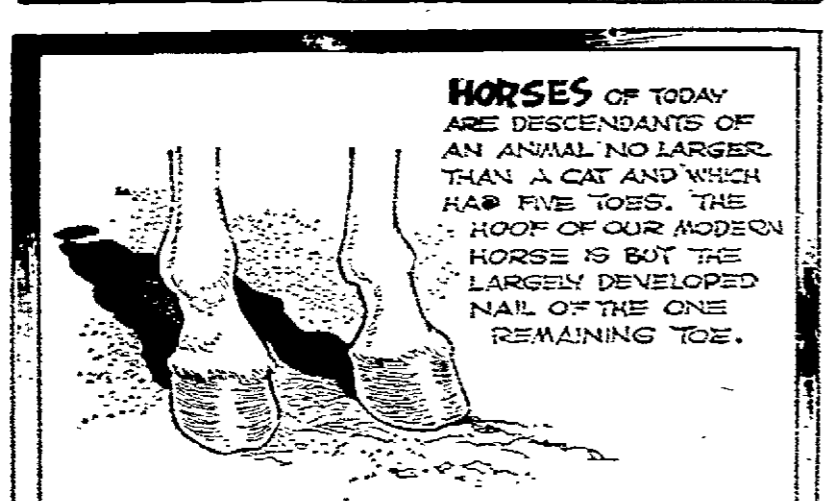

"When men become hopeless, they become desperate and dangerous," he said. "Two main factors have given rise to this situation. One is the fact that the Baumes laws are sending to the prisons more and more utterly hopeless men. The other is that, with the failure of the state to build more prisons, frightful overcrowding has resulted.

"The state may take one of two alternatives. It may build a great building, send its life termers and desperate men there, and rely on the Baumes laws to control them, or it may build modern adequate and spacious prisons where men may be segregated according to their records and behavior.

"This, at best would be only a partial solution. The state, in enacting the Baumes laws, sought a habitual criminal statute which would make punishment swift and certain. It never removed the hardened criminal as a menace to society. We can now view the results.

Life commitments roll up at an appalling rate and the state is put to the cruelest, defensive makeshifts in merely housing the prisoners. Auburn prison, built to accommodate 1,200 men at the most, holds around 1,700. More than 500 convicts sleep in the corridors. Aside from the danger of such situations, the effect on prisoners is devastating.

Great Social Rush As Mourning Period Ends

BY SALLIE V. H. PICKETT
Washington, (AP)—Washington is on the eve of a great social rush. Next week the 30 days of official mourning for the death of Secretary of War Wood. There seems an inordinate effort to rush every thing that was postponed on account of the mourning, into the two or three days immediately following the mourning period, with the result that officials will be done almost to death with dining and calling.

YOUNG SCIENTIST CORNERS VICIOUS INFLUENZA GERM

Dangerous Microbe Is Discovered by Dr. Isadore S. Falk

BY OWEN L. SCOTT
Copyright, 1929, By Cons. Press
Chicago (CPA)—A thirty-year-old scientist, Dr. Isadore S. Falk, has cornered the ranks of famous microbe hunters of history, following his remorseless and successful battle to conquer the vicious influenza germ.

At the same time, the thirty-year-old president of the University of Chicago, Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, sorrowfully admits that the university soon is to lose this microbe hunter whose encounter with this most elusive germ may get him the Nobel prize, but did not provide him and his assistants with suitable quarters.

The quick, well-directed onslaught against this latest microbe, was made according to the best traditions of these scientists who through the years have overcome all handicaps to combat the bacteria enemies of mankind. It was carried out in the customary ramshackle laboratory—situated in a ten-story building adjoining the beautiful campus of the University of Chicago.

Dr. Falk and his assistants set to work on Dec. 12 a year ago. From then until Jan. 10 of this year they worked almost without sleep, in the midst of an epidemic of influenza, in order to catch the guilty microbe on one of his unguarded moments. During the brief campaign before Dec. 25—Christmas Day, 1928—when the germ was pinpointed upon, three thousand eight hundred microbes were reduced to eight general types. All of the workers developed influenza, and then slept on their desks in order that they might be on hand to furnish samples of all suspected types before the epidemic ran its course.

The young Dr. Falk through this period kept an alarm clock at his side, set at half hour intervals, so that he would awaken when it started to sleep while making prolonged observations.

The germ when found turned out to be a pleomorphic streptococcus and, according to Dr. Falk, it "looks like a microscopic chain of unattached beads which a child has strung together." When this organism collects in tiny, smooth colonies in the blood, it results in a mild influenza or a type of cold. When it gathers in tiny, rough colonies, virulent influenza is produced.

All of this was verified in the months following the isolation of the microbe last Christmas. And in the work from the start, Miss Ruth M. McKinney and R. Dendell Harrison, graduate student, work for doctors' degrees, was most valuable. It was from Miss McKinney, who developed influenza during the height of the work, that the most valuable cultures were obtained. In all 14 members of the university's bacteriological department assisted, while 125 monks did particular service in submitting to inoculation.

Concerning the prospects for a successful method of attack against influenza epidemics in the future, Dr. Falk says:

"What we are hoping is that a vaccine—prepared from dead microbes of the influenza germ—can be absorbed through the mucous membrane of the nose and throat, and thus effect a cure. The fact which gives us most hope is that in the search for specific cures for many diseases you have won 75 per cent of the battle when you have isolated the germs of those diseases."

LIFE'S ODDITIES

New York Society "Buds" Don't Like Elders' Edict
New York—(AP)—With the little battle over early hours still going on full tilt, society's elders decked the social battleground these last few days in trappings gay as ever.

The "early to bed" edict applies to their daughters and not themselves, they apparently believe, and govern their actions accordingly. It appears that the children have been "spanked" and sent to bed to give their elders a chance.

While Junior League members discussed party and even the new edict that sends them home before three, while debutantes and their cavaliers were whisked away from parties at the crest of the gaiety, their fathers and mothers increased the festivities and lingered to make merry far into the morning hours. Some of them didn't even begin proceeding until midnight.

At a recent party given by Otto Kahn, a guest who arrived shortly before 11 o'clock found himself the first on the scene. It was not until after 12 o'clock that other guests, making their way from dinner and theatre parties—began strolling in. At 1:30 the buffet supper was served and after that the dancing began, the guests lingering until daybreak.

One of the gayest amusements for the fashionables was the costume party which Miss Elsa Maxwell gave in the crystal room at the Ritz-Carlton Sunday night. The guests were requested not to appear as the knights and court ladies that generally throng the smart folk's costume parties, but to impersonate one another. About one-third of them arrived impersonating their hostess.

Among the guests who canceled in the crystal room at "somebody else's" were Count and Countess St. Phalix, Prince and Princess Savignac de Lucigne, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Astor, Mrs. Belmont Tiffany and Prince and Princess Hohenzollern-Schillingfurst.

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS TO SING CHRISTMAS CAROLS IN APPLETON

The traveling men stranded in hotels, the firemen and policemen stationed at their posts, and the invalids confined in St. Elizabeth hospital will have the Christmas spirit brought to them by a group of junior high school boys who will sing Christmas carols at these places on Christmas Eve.

Dr. Earl Baker, director of public school music, will pick a group of boys from the junior high school choruses for this purpose.

All music in the public schools at the present time is centered around the Glee Club. In the grade schools, the old familiar hymns are being taught, and in the junior high school appreciation classes the sacred compositions of the great masters are being studied.

The amount handed in the various schools was $1,200.00. The total of $2,500.00 was deposited by 2,024 children, bringing the balance on deposit up to $24,217.42. Sixty-three pupils withdrew $100.00, and interest credited during the week was $26.80. McKimley and 10 Catholic schools had their 100 per cent banking average.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE

© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

Of course not," Sue replied to Corrine's question, concerning whether Harry Becker had proposed to her. "He doesn't know me well enough."

"You see, I'm sure that he's going to Grace says that you—"

"I do like her but I'm tired of having her for a model," then she relaxed slowly with a quivering breath. "I'm dreadfully sorry for acting so crazy. I don't know what the matter with me."

"That's all right," Corrine accepted the apology with good nature. "But how do you know Harry is going to propose? I want to know."

"I don't. Only since I don't want him he probably will. That's the way with men. I hear Jimmy's born," she blurted a kiss to Corrine and ran downstairs.

"Sue," Jimmy took her hand and turned around while he surveyed the tight-fitting gypsy dress. "And I suppose you have another eye under the hat. The costume's a knockout. Where did you get it?"

"A very youthful fairy godmother," she answered. "You look quite sportive in your own new suit and your tie is stunning. Where did you get it?"

"Do you like it? I had a birthday last week and Grace gave it to me."

"Oh-h-h," Sue had always remembered the date of Jimmy's birthday before. "Jimmy, I didn't mean to forget. Why didn't you remind me of it? I'm glad Grace knows."

"I don't know," he paused, perplexed. "I didn't tell her but somebody must have told you."

"Thought I had when I didn't even send a card to show I was glad you were a year older and wiser. I thought you had more sense, Jimmy."

"She was thinking, however, that Grace had a retentive memory."

"What shall we do? Go to a movie," Jimmy asked.

"Why yes, if you want to." She had thought that he wanted to see her and her pride was hurt to think he would prefer to watch a celluloid heroine act a part. And there was something strangely different about Jimmy tonight, she sensed, as they sat in the show. He tried to hide a yawn once or twice and finally Sue suggested that they leave.

"A dumb play anyway, wasn't it," he said lightly when they were riding along. "Where shall we go now?"

"Anywhere at all. Tell me about your work and your plans," she moved closer and slipped her arm through his, letting her hand rest lightly on his arm. He covered it with warm fingers and slowed the car as he answered.

"Are you sure I won't bore you?"

KENTUCKY PIONEER'S DEATH RECALLS OLD FIGHTS OF RANCHERS

Sheep-cattle Battles Made Life of Kels Nickell One of Adventure

Cheyenne, Wyo.—(AP)—The bloody days of the west, when sheepmen invaded the domain that cattlemen considered their heritage, is fiction to this generation.

To Kels P. Nickell, who died in Jackson, Ky., recently, it was a page from his book of life.

A blacksmith who saw in sheep a potential fortune, Nickell turned to raising them in the Iron country of Wyoming where none had contested the cattlemen's rule of the range.

Hardened by many years in the west, Nickell stubbornly fought for his life and the right to a place on the range for his 3,000 head of sheep. The story of that fight is a saga of the west.

He was shot from ambush and severely wounded. He was marked for death by Tom Horn, professional man killer, and became involved in a brawl with a cattleman who was Horn's intimate. The cattlemen emerged with knife wounds.

Nickell's 16-year-old son, Willie, was ambushed near his father's ranch. He was wearing his father's coat and was astride Nickell's horse when he was shot to death, apparently mistaken for his father.

Then began a relentless man hunt for Horn, who was captured six months later. At his trial in Cheyenne, the prosecution offered a "confession," damaging statements which were gained through a ruse.

Posing as a "bad man" Joe LeFors, deputy United States marshal, inveigled Horn into a drinking bout. His tongue loosened by drink, Horn made statements which were copied by a court reporter concealed in an adjoining room. The "confession," with circumstantial evidence, convicted him.

He was sentenced to be hanged after a 14-day trial. There followed months of legal delays during which the desperate man sought to foil justice. Once he escaped with another prisoner after clubbing an undersheriff but was recaptured.

A plot to liberate him by dynamiting the jail was exposed by a prisoner to whom Horn entrusted messages. The prisoner turned them over, not to Horn's friends but to a Cheyenne newspaper, which scored the biggest scoop in the journalistic history of the state.

Protesting his innocence to the end, Horn died coolly on the gallows, and it was the comment of the period that not until he dropped through the trap did prominent cattlemen breathe easily.

Nickell survived the threats on his life, finally to retire to the south.

COLDS INCREASE AS TEMPERATURE DROPS

The damp, cold weather showed its effect on the cold crop in the public schools during November, 153 colds being listed on the monthly report of the school nurses. Nine cases of chicken pox, five of mumps, four of pneumonia, and three of intestinal disturbance also were investigated.

Defects found in school children included tonsils, 255; teeth, 111; thyroid glands, 75; cervical glands, 57; nasal breathing, 33; heart, 24; lungs, 6; and skin, 21. Eight pupils were found to be under nourished; 51 were 10 per cent or more underweight, and eight were 20 per cent or more overweight. Pupils advised to become vaccinated numbered 365.

During the month, in cooperation with the medical examinations conducted by physicians, 744 children were found to be perfect.

Seven persons received social service attention, five were given first aid, and five temperatures were taken. The nurses visited 244 patients during the month, and made 74 school visits.

Talks To Parents

NAGGED

BY Alice Judson Peale

Janet is a bright girl whose difficulty at school consists chiefly in her inability to finish or hand in on time her otherwise excellent school work.

Her mother came in to discuss Janet's difficulties with her teacher. "Janet is perfectly awful," she began. "I've told her so time and time again. I've told her that she's simply got to do better, that we aren't going to make the effort to send her to college unless she can show us that she can apply herself."

"I tell her and tell her, but it goes in one ear and out the other. I say to her: Janet, you're a dreadful disappointment to your father and me. We always hoped you would amount to something. They say at school that you've got plenty of brains, but certainly no one would ever suspect it from the kind of reports you bring home."

"Tell me, Miss Prentiss, what are we going to do about it? I'm at my wits' end."

"I suggest just one thing—leave her alone," said the teacher. "Janet's mind is first rate, but I honestly believe that she has been worried and nagged so much that she can't use it. I think that her poor school work is just her way of getting even."

"Not that she thinks it out that way. She is simply bored and irritated with the whole subject. She hates to think about it at all, so she puts it off and doesn't get it done because she would rather spend her time on things which are not a constant reminder of your disappointment in her. If I were you I would leave her alone for a month and see what happens."

Probably nothing very miraculous will happen in a month. It takes children a long time to recover from the effects of constant nagging.

Giant Planes Planned For U. S. Will Be World's Largest

The largest airplane in the world, as American aeronautical engineers have planned it, is pictured here. Four of these, for regular passenger and freight service, are to be built by the General Development Co., of Connecticut, through its vice-president and chief consultant, Dr. William Whitney Christies, lower left. He is the inventor of the aileron balancing device now used on every airplane in the world. Early in 1930 construction is to be started on the giant craft, which under Department of Commerce regulations will have a maximum carrying capacity of 200 passengers and a crew of 27. In the above picture, at March 1st of 1929, interior is already laid out how a service compartments with 100 seats are to be placed in the wings. Plans are to be placed in the wings and radiators operators will operate from the central projecting cabin. Eight motors of 1200 horse power each will work in units of four on two giant four-bladed propellers. The wing span is to be 262 feet—10 feet greater than the Dornier DO-X airplane, now the largest in the world.

MIRACLE BRIDGE DEAL RECORDED IN ENGLAND

London—(P)—The odds against a deal at bridge in which each player holds one complete suit are 2,235,397,406,555,308,361,550,999 to 1, but it has happened again, and for the sixth time as far as authentic records are concerned.

The hands were held by four well-known players in a game played at the Carlton Hotel. Sir Charles Sykes had the spades and naturally made a grand slam in that suit.

The five previous cases that are regarded as authentic in which this amazing distribution of the cards occurred were at Calcutta in 1838; at Brighton, England, in 1892; at the Vendish Hotel, Bedford, England, and in a game played at a town in Maine in 1937; and at the United Berkeley Club, London, in July of last year.

TURN MILK FACTORY INTO CHEESE PLANT

Cheese Will Be Manufactured During Slow Period for Condensed Milk

Special to Post-Crescent

Manawa—The Dorden plant here has ceased for the time being the manufacture of condensed milk and has turned its facilities over to making cheese. Fred Quimp of Plymouth is the cheese maker.

Approximately 39,000 pounds of milk are being turned into 235 single Daisies, about 5,000 pounds of cheese every day. Cheedar cheese will be made as soon as the necessary hoops arrive. The cheddar variety is converted into process cheese, with less waste locally.

For the past several years at this season when the condensed milk market is slow, Daisies has been manufactured at the Manawa plant. This condition may last only two or three months or it may continue until late next spring.

Seven new men are employed at the local factory as a result of the change.

Funeral services for Robert Kotke were held at St. Paul Evangelical Lutheran church here Tuesday afternoon, Rev. L. A. Karpinsky officiating. Interment was in the Manawa cemetery.

Mr. Kotke, 64, died at his home in the village, Friday from heart disease. He had been in failing health the past summer and was confined to his bed the last two weeks.

Robert Kotke was born in Germany, July 23, 1865, and came to America in 1889. He came directly to this locality and lived here a short time before going to Tomahawk where he was employed as stationary engineer at the electrical plant. He was married at that city to Miss Martia Frank on March 31, 1891. Her death occurred a year later.

Moving back to Manawa, Mr. Kotke was married to Mrs. Hulda Jueds on November 23, 1898. They lived here for two years when Mr. Kotke operated the power plant for the Little Wolf River Lumber company and then moved to a farm in Little Wolf just north of the village. They lived on his place until three years ago when they moved back to Manawa.

Survivors are his widow, three daughters, Mrs. Louis Galloway, of Milwaukee; Mrs. Alex Doud of Tigerton, and Mrs. Robert Zempie of Manawa; two sons Victor of New London and Merin at home; a step daughter, Mrs. E. Kuehl of Milwaukee; a step son, Herman Jueds of Marion, three brothers, Henry of Florida, Arvid and Otto in Germany one half-brother, Herman Patzer of Little Wolf; and 19 grandchildren.

The funeral of Charles Hahn was held at the Methodist Episcopal church here, Wednesday afternoon, Rev. P. W. Wright officiating. Interment was in the Manawa cemetery.

Mr. Hahn, 55, died at his home in Manawa, Saturday, from a complication of diseases. He was born at Hortonville, Aug. 29, 1875. When three years of age his parents moved to a farm near Clintonville where he grew to manhood. Later he worked with his brother, O. A. Hahn of Manawa, at the carpenter trade in this locality for about 16 years.

He was married to Mrs. Adele Olson of Chicago, Ill., at Manawa on August 28, 1914. They made their home on a farm in Little Wolf three miles south of Manawa until May, 1929, when Mr. Hahn's health failed and they came to Manawa to live.

Survivor are the widow, one brother, O. A. Hahn of Manawa, one sister, Mrs. Louis Randt of Manawa, and a half-brother, Herman Passchel of Clintonville.

Figuratively speaking, old man Goliath was once more knocked down and out by the puny David right here in Manawa, Tuesday evening, when a big, rangy, confident basketball team from Central Wisconsin college, Scandinavia, succumbed to the attack of a frail appearing bunch of athletes representing the local high school. The score was 25 to 14.

The visitors were ahead throughout the game until the final quarter when six baskets in quick succession cinched the game for Manawa.

Headed by Peterson at center, a six foot, 200-pound giant, who ought to look good in the same dressing room with Art "the Great" Shires, and L. Olson, a huge guard, whose butting proclivities would earn him a match with Gus Conneburg, the college team towered over Manawa. Like a railroad conductor does to a chap without a ticket, and Manawa gave them more than they expected—yes, verily, much more.

It was an uphill battle for the Wolves, as Scandinavia got away to a four point lead at the very beginning on baskets by L. Olson and Halvorson. Manawa was keenly aware of the absence of Vaughn at guard, and Hedling was forced to perform almost double duty because Lindow, who filled in at Vaughn's place, was playing a strange position. However, the black and red kept pecking away and was only at an 8 to 7 disadvantage at the end of the second period.

With the start of the final half a little shift in Manawa's tactics worked wonders. Peterson, a nosebleed no relative, to Scandinavia's pivot man, jumped center for Manawa and then dropped back to guard while Lindow played the floor. After a few minutes of play during which time Johnson and L. Olson sneaked in three of the Wolves' defense for three pot shots, the new combination worked as smooth as silk.

Since the guards were functioning as they should, Manawa's offense opened up. Behind 14 to 12 at the end of the third quarter, Eastling tied things up with a basket at the very beginning of the final period. Waich put Manawa ahead with a follow-in shot and after that Wastling, Waich, and Lindow were out the net with successful attempts, six baskets and a free throw in six minutes.

Forgetting to turn off the electric fan in his tailor shop located in the First National bank building when he left to attend the funeral of Robert Kotke Tuesday afternoon, K. Manthe narrowly escaped a severe loss. When he returned smoke was coming out of cracks in the

KIMBERLY SCHOOL WINS PLAY CONTEST

Defeats Wrightstown and Darboy in Closely Contested Tournament

Kimberly—Kimberly high school won the one-act play tournament between Denmark, Wrightstown, and Kimberly having an average of 89.1-3 per cent for the three presentations. Wrightstown won second place having a percentage of 83.1-2. The winning players will receive a silver loving cup, and also will compete with the winners of the two other triangles, one being composed of Hortonville, Seymour, and Pulaski high schools, the other being composed of Hilbert, Brillion and Reedsville high schools. Hortonville won its tournament, but the other triangle has not completed its play.

Ruth McKinnan from Appleton, Margaret O'Neil from Menasha and Pearl McManis of Green Bay were the judges for the Kimberly triangle's play.

Coach Berger and his Red Devils Friday night defeated Wrightstown by a score of 35 to 9.

Again it is a story how Buck LaMay, Kimberly's midge forward, pivoted, passed and sank half of his team's points.

Kimberly now leads the little nine conference having won six games and lost one. Kimberly will play Seymour at Seymour next Friday.

Kimberly Clark's basketball team still remains undefeated for the present season by defeating Manitowoc 33 to 30.

To make a long story short it was Bazal against the whole Kimberly team. Both Red players fought on defense. Kimberly using fast moving five man defense and Manitowoc playing a man for man style of defense. At the end of the first quarter the score was 8-3 in Kimberly's favor and the half, it still was 14-7 in Kimberly's favor.

Then Bazal went wild and the third quarter was 25-24 in favor of Manitowoc.

Then on until the time was practically up both teams fought at elbows. Gossen and Koel shared the scoring honors for Kimberly each sinking four field goals and two foul shots.

ADMIT DISPARITY IN DISTRIBUTION OF RADIO POWERS

Equality Achieved as Far as Possible, Commission Reports

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright, 1929, by Mack Press
Washington—Failure to conform with the terms of the radio law which requires the equal distribution of radio broadcasting facilities among the zones and states virtually is admitted by the federal radio commission in a statistical analysis submitted to the senate.

But in a statement accompanying the analysis, the commission says the "desired equality has been achieved as far as possible" in the distribution of wavelength and hours of operation, but not in adjustments of power for stations. No explanation of the apparent discrepancy between the statement and the analysis is made.

The report was submitted pursuant to the Sackett resolution, requesting detailed information on the present broadcasting set-up as compared to the distribution a year ago, or before the Davis equalization amendment was enacted. It blames the lack of equality in power distribution among the zones on two conditions, first the stations themselves, and second, the law, which gives the commission no latitude in adjusting the assignments of stations.

BLAMED DAVIS BILL

The results of the analysis conform closely with the analysis made by Commissioner Harold A. LaFount 10 days ago, but Mr. LaFount explained that there was a disparity in the distribution in every respect, and blamed it on the restrictive Davis amendment itself, which he described as unworkable.

The commission's official analysis shows that 75 per cent of eastern zone, has about 27 per cent of the aggregate power of 97,125 watts used by the 533 licensed stations which operated on Nov. 27, last, whereas, under the Davis amendment each zone is entitled to but 20 per cent. The second or east central zone, had 22 per cent, which is slightly more than the fourth or middle western zone. The third, or southern zone has about 17 1/2 per cent, and the fifth or Pacific zone about 10 1/2 per cent.

As to numbers of stations, it is shown that the first zone has 110 or about 19 per cent of the total, which is entitled to 20 per cent; the second zone 98, or 16 1/2 per cent; third zone 110, or about 19 per cent; fourth zone 151, or about 25 per cent, and the fifth zone 121, or 20 1/2 per cent.

The distribution of channels on Nov. 27 last also was disproportionate. Each state is entitled to 20 per cent of the aggregate of 411 frequency assignments, in the local, regional and national categories, but they were divided as follows:

First zone 72, or 17 1/2 per cent;

Second zone 65, or nearly 16 per cent; third zone 80, or about 19 1/2 per cent; fourth zone 104, or about 25 1/2 per cent, and fifth zone 50 or about 12 1/2 per cent.

The analysis by zones of the number of stations and percentages of time of night operations, each zone being entitled to 20 per cent, was:

NEW LEGAL RULING GUARDS HUSBAND'S PURSE FROM WIFE

District of Columbia Court Hands Down Latest Decision on Credit

Washington—(P)—Another legal precedent was established, upholding a husband as the owner of his credit so far as his wife is concerned.

To a long line of English and American court opinions giving a break to the man who shuffles a sheaf of bad news the first of most months, the District of Columbia court of appeals has added its affirmative voice.

The opinion was rendered by Justice Charles H. Robb, and he cleared Rep. George Huddleston of Alabama of liability for a debt of $245 for a fur coat Mrs. Huddleston purchased.

Mr. Huddleston set for that he gave his wife $15 a month in cash for clothing and told her not to purchase on his credit. He admitted he knew nothing of the fur coat purchase, until it was legally brought to his attention.

The crux of the case, said the court, was this: "No evidence of acts or conduct on the part of Mr. Huddleston conferring upon his wife an apparent authority to pledge his credit."

Down through the years, the opinion cited the decisions of other courts, in England and in America, which held substantially, that when a husband has once performed his duty to provide for his wife he may not be compelled in a court of law to do so again.

Justice Robb said, furthermore, "It does not require the discernment of a Solomon to appreciate that the unauthorized purchase of goods by a wife whose husband has adequately provided for her inevitably will have a tendency to disturb and possibly disrupt their conjugal relations."

It was as long ago as 1893 that a Maryland court set up a bar to the wife's remark "Charge it, please," that, in legal terminology, was the case of Jones v. Gutman. The court held when husband and wife are living together and she is properly maintained she has no implied authority in law to pledge her husband's credit. Whether she has actual authority depends on the facts of the particular case.

The opinion of an English court in a case technically known as Jolly v. V. Rees, 15 C. B. N. S. 635, was cited by the Maryland tribunal. In thorough British fashion, that particular case was revived and the principle affirmed in the house of lords.

The British court laid down the law like this: "The husband sustains the liability for all debts; he should, therefore, have the power to regulate the expenditure for which he is responsible, by his own discretion according to his own means."

The district of Columbia opinion is by way of being a legal climax to the husband's victories on the right of clutching his pocketbook. The only appeal from its voice is to the United States supreme court.

DIPLOMATS' IMMUNITY UNPOPULAR IN ENGLAND

London—(P)—The policy of extending diplomatic immunity to members of foreign embassy staffs has found critics here.

It seems a member of the American embassy secretariat staff watered his garden in Suburban at a time when drought regulations prohibited use of water except as a beverage and for cooking and bathing.

He claimed diplomatic immunity, so the case was dismissed. Which moved an evening paper, the Star, to this editorial comment: "If a foreign diplomat may take water which is denied to the native payer of water rate, may he take a loaf of bread out of a baker's shop? And if not, why not?"

"There are good reasons for granting privileges to embassies, which rank as territory of their respective countries, but when minor members of embassy staffs claim a privilege to ignore regulations which are imperative for the rest of us, and to escape the consequences of accidents for which the rest of us have to pay, it is high time to consider the necessity for overhauling the rules of a very one-sided game."

Palm Beach Becoming Elite Society Center

BY HELEN VAN HOY SMITH

Palm Beach, Fla. — (P)—Palm Beach begins to find itself once more the elite social center.

For the past fortnight trains from the north have unloaded their human freight at the little yellow frame station that has known the comings and goings of Palm Beach for more than 50 years. One by one, shutters have been removed from the windows of the great mansions along the ocean boulevard and the palm-lined avenues. The Breakers hotel opens tomorrow and with the festivities scheduled for New Year's eve the 1930 Palm Beach season will make its formal debut.

There has been no formal entertaining as yet, but informal luncheons and gatherings at the numerous attractive tea rooms have been frequent. Gleanings from conversations over the tea cups indicate that the longer skirts will in no manner slow down the pace of society this season.

Major Barclay Warburton came down from Philadelphia in November and divides his time between Palm Beach and Miami. Major Warburton, who resigned as mayor of Palm Beach, has recently become president of the Miami Jockey club. Other well known folk who have opened their Palm Beach homes include Mr. and Mrs. Louis Vester of St. Louis, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Davies of Kansas City, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Kroger, Cincinnati, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Durant, Guilford, Conn., and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Fatio. Mr. Fatio was the former Eleanor Chase of Oakbrook, Wis., and Palm Beach. A honeymoon in Europe followed their marriage which took place last summer.

Mr. and Mrs. John Robert Bryden of Baltimore and New York have arrived at their home, "Jungle Nest," on the South Ocean-bld. Mrs. Bryden is chairman of the current events lecture series and has been instrumental in bringing distinguished speakers to Palm Beach. Mr. Bryden is a member of the famous Old Guard society.

Among the early arrivals is Mrs. George Alexander McKinnock of Chicago, whose Villa Casa Alejandro has been the scene of many notable affairs. Mrs. McKinnock is president of the Garden club of Palm Beach and has already held several conferences relative to the coming flower show. From the garden club in Mrs. Henry R. Rea of Pittsburgh, who has recently opened her winter home, Lagomar, on the South Ocean boulevard.

CONSERVATION WARDENS BUSY IN LAST 2 MONTHS

Madison—(P)—October and November, 1929, were the two biggest months the law enforcement division of the State Conservation commission has had. From the first of October to December, there were 224 arrests made by 86 wardens.

Arrests were made for practically every violation of the game law from poaching to the use of traps, snares to possessing ferrets. Most violations concerned illegal hunting and trapping.

For trapping law violations 155 were arrested and for hunting 277 were arrested.

In all, these violations paid to the state school fund $19,075.00. In lieu of paying fines 75 violators served 6529 days in jail.

Several large confiscations were made during the two months, notably one of 1908 muskrat skins, confiscation of 2,673 pounds of white fish, and a case in which a car, 80 traps, two rifles, one pistol and two boats were taken.

Backing up the plan of Governor General Davis to increase the tourist traffic of the Philippines the Rotary club of Manila has established a tourist bureau in the city.

ARRIVAL OF ART TREASURES ENDS GREAT ANXIETY

Lady Chamberlain Feared Precious Pictures Would Be Sunk in Storm

BY MARTHA DALRYMPLE

London—(P)—Lady Austen Chamberlain, wife of the former British foreign minister, is breathing easily again now that the Italian treasure ship, the Leonardo da Vinci, made port safely and the invaluable works of art of the old masters are being housed in the basement of the Royal Academy to await hanging at the great exhibition which will open Jan. 1.

Lady Chamberlain, who is chairman of the exhibition and who was responsible for Premier Mussolini giving his consent to move the famous Italian primitives to London lived through several bad days while the Leonardo da Vinci buffeted the week's tremendous gale, and while the cargo was being moved by trucks from the docks to the academy courtyard.

"I knew if anything happened to any of those pictures," she said, "I might as well jump off London bridges because I was the one who had asked for them and who was being held responsible."

Lady Chamberlain is a gracious lady with a soft voice and delightful manner that has won her the title of one of England's most charming official hostesses.

"He was perfectly charming," she said of the Italian dictator. "He was terribly amused when I asked for one very fine Botticelli which is located in the little town of his birth. He laughed a long time at the fact an Englishwoman had come all the way to Rome to tell him what treasures his own home town held."

Lady Chamberlain's work in trying to persuade governments of 14 countries which are contributing to make the exhibition one of the finest in the history of the world was hampered by the fact the art treasures never before have left the home galleries.

"The National gallery at London is forbidden by constitution to loan any of its treasures, and consequently she was unable to promise reciprocation of loans of the masterpieces. 'All I could do was to tell Premier Mussolini, Dr. Stresemann and others that we had a royal commission looking into advisability of an act of parliament to allow lending at the national gallery.'"

GOT GERMAN CONSENT

"Thank goodness, about six weeks ago the commission reported favorably. I immediately wrote to Berlin enclosing a letter I had from Dr. Stresemann shortly before his death. The German government gave its immediate approval, sending the telegrams and works of art we wanted."

Her ladyship's interest in art dates from her early childhood. It has been fostered greatly by her husband who despite a full political and public life has devoted much of his spare time to the galleries of the world and to making of his own collection.

"When this exhibition first was suggested to me two years ago," she said, "I told them I was glad to do it, realizing it would be necessary to have the consent of the premiers and kings, presidents of the countries whose works we wanted. Of course, I knew many of them personally through so many years as a political wife."

"Mussolini agreed immediately and I gathered a committee of artists and the finest art critics of England to make the selection of the masterpieces. It was Mussolini himself who suggested the flourish of a naval tug escort."

The exhibition will contain bronzes, sculpture, glassware, paintings and other works of art. It is attracting wide international attention and art lovers everywhere are planning wide international attention and art lovers everywhere are planning to come to London to see the collection at one time, of the masterpieces of the entire world.

Sign Shires And Hack Wilson For Bout In Chicago

CUB OUTFIELDER WILL GET $10,000 FOR HIS TROUBLES

And of Course Great Arthur Calls Hack a Minor Leaguer

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO—(AP)—A four-round boxing match between two baseball players whose pugilistic reputations largely rest on their accomplishments in extemporaneous, non-sport fighting, is causing more excitement than championship battles recently staged in Chicago.

Promoter Jim Mullen has signed Charles Arthur (The Great) Shires the Chicago White Sox's catcher, and Lewis (Hack) Wilson, slugging centerfielder for the National League champion Chicago Cubs, for a city series match next January. For a great interest in the fight that Mullen today was negotiating with Chicago Stadium officials for use of the huge arena when he brings the American and National League battlers together.

Wilson, at his home in Martinsburg, W. Va., yesterday agreed to fight the cocky White Sox infielder when Mullen met his price of $10,000 and $1,000 for training expenses—a record sum for a first engagement.

Shires is under contract to fight for Mullen on a percentage basis. Shires is the more experienced pugilist, at least professionally. "For he has had one fight for which he was paid, while Wilson's bout, have been of impromptu nature and have won him nothing but fines and suspensions. Shires made his bow in formal boxing competition last Monday night, and scored a victory over 21-second knockout over Dangerous Dan Daly, a Cleveland youth said to have been imported for the purpose of avenging Lena Blackburne, former manager of the White Sox, whom Shires twice conquered in free-hand bouts. Wilson's record includes a win over Edward Troup, a milkman, who made remarks about the pudgy outfielder during a game at Wrigley field, a no-decision bout with Ray Kolp, Cincinnati Red hurler, and a victory over Pete Donohue, another Cincinnati pitcher, at the Union station, Chicago.

Shires has his two victories over Lena Blackburne, and claims a collective triumph over Blackburne, Lou Barbout, traveling secretary of the White Sox, and a couple of house detectives, in a Philadelphia hotel room battle last summer.

Shires was calm, almost bored when told that Wilson had agreed to the match, but was good for one of his characteristically modest statements:

"Hack will think he is looking in to the sun again, when I start throwing them at him. The fact that he belongs to the National league, which really is a minor league, doesn't prod my major league pride."

Wilson said he hadn't thought up any mean remarks to make at the great one, but guessed the Cubs-Sox angle would do for a grudge. "The Cub slugger immediately began planning his strategy, and a victory over Shires-Wilson fight, by stopping this 'Monday night'."

The morning failed to impress the great one.

"Trafford? I'll use him for a sparring partner. One poke will take care of him Monday night."

The amazing purses offered Wilson and Shires, have caused a feeling of unrest among the journeymen fighters who depend on the knuckle trade for livelihood. The boys who have sacrificed years and their facial features to their business, can't understand how two baseball players can jump into their racket, and demand such a cash bonus.

Several have threatened retaliatory measures, saying they will break into baseball, unless baseball players stay out of the fight business.

Alexander Back To Scene Of First Pitching Days

BY JOHN R. FOSTER
Copyright, 1929

NEW YORK—Alex is going home. Bert Shotton of the Philadelphia Nationals, got Grover Cleveland Alexander along with St. Louis Cardinals along with Bob McGraw, the pitcher and Peel.

It wasn't long ago that old Alex set a National league record for number of games pitched. But he fell into disfavor. The St. Louis manager sent him home one night charging he had broken rules of discipline. After that he was retired for the season.

Asking of waivers was hinted, but no club wanted old Alex. There was a time when fifteen clubs would have jumped like a fish for a fly for old Alex.

Bert Shotton once was with St. Louis, and Alex knows him. Shotton may get some winning games out of Alex. The Phils need a pitcher or two that know a lot about pitching. Pitchers need not only good arms, but they must know how it's done, too. Alex knows a lot about that. His courage, too, is great. Peel is an outfielder, and the Phils felt they could spare him, along with Bob McGraw.

Perhaps the Phils wanted McCurdy, the catcher, as much as Alex. They need one badly. McCurdy once almost became a Yankee. The late Miller Huggins thought well of him. The purchase price was too high for Miller, however.

There is a lot of "if" in this deal, and there may be good in it for both teams.

The St. Louis Browns let Wally Schang, the veteran catcher, pass on the Athletics in exchange for Sammy Hale, the third baseman. St. Louis needs one Hale has played some good games at third base for the Athletics and he can hit. His worst trouble is in his hands, which are not overlarge. He needs a big glove to obtain expanse.

Duffalo took Plensky, the Georgetown player, who can play football as well as baseball. There is a possibility in that young man which may make him worth while.

FIVE BIG 9 CAGE TEAMS PLAY TONIGHT

Michigan Goes East to Meet Pennsylvania at Philadelphia

Chicago—(AP)—Five Western conference basketball teams will be in action tonight, two of them against major adversaries.

Michigan will carry the Big Nine banner into the east, meeting Pennsylvania at Philadelphia, while Purdue, Northwestern and Wisconsin will play at home.

Northwestern has a tough assignment in Pittsburgh which last night won a thriller from Everett Dean's Indiana five, 35 to 31, at Bloomington. The battle should provide a great deal of excitement.

Purdue will entertain Washington university of St. Louis, with Coach Ward Lambert of the Boilermakers team and rivalled the outburst for Jack Dempsey last Monday night. The crowd roared tribute to Ruby's gameness but was on its feet at the finish yelling for the "kill" by the baby-faced one. Sentiment yielded to the power of punch.

Seldon has McCarrin looked more effective as a boxer or a puncher. Jimmy was pitted against one of the fastest, cleverest ringmen New York has produced since the days of Benny Leonard, with the added threat of a sure puncher, out of the crowd to finish. He outmaneuvered and outboxed Ruby. He took Goldstein's hardest wallop without yielding an inch. There was a quick flash of that doomed feeling in Ruby's face in the middle of the first round when he shot his right three times to McCarrin's chin without result. Jimmy not only proved he could take anything the Ghetto's hero had to offer but countered with a series of expert volleys.

McCarrin's victory established him beyond doubt as the outstanding contender for the welter title now held by Jackie Fields. The halfway for this title scrap can now go on with the customers' approval.

BILLY TOWNSEND WINS CANADIAN FIGHT TITLE

M'LARNIN K. O.'S RUBY GOLDSTEIN IN SECOND ROUND

Baby Faced Killer Has New York Ghetto Entirely at His Mercy

BY ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK—(AP)—The baby-faced kid is still the killer of the ring.

Irish Jimmy McLarnin, the cherubic welterweight who looked as though he didn't have a savage thought in his head, crushed the jewel of New York's Ghetto, Ruby Goldstein, last night in less than four minutes. After a short but sensational and highly dramatic battle, McLarnin stretched the handsome Jewish boy on the canvas for the full count of ten with only 52 seconds of the second round elapsed.

There had been some talk before-hand that Ruby would not or could not "take it," but the pride of the East Side gave a magnificent exhibition of courage and gameness before he was hurled to a limp heap by the terrific punching of one of the hardest hitters of modern ring history for his size. It was the end of another broken trail for Goldstein, but Ruby won the admiration, the roars of a capacity crowd of close to 20,000 even though he was hopelessly outclassed by a greater fighter.

Goldstein was floored twice by McLarnin's slashing attack before he took the final count. Only the bell stopped the Jewish ringer from a knockout in the first round. When he gamely crawled to his feet after a count of nine and reeled along the ropes, trying to check the storm of blows that blinded him.

Ruby, his pale asctic features swollen and his soft deep set eyes, bloodshot, stumbled to his corner. He came out warily in the second round, stabbing somewhat futilely now, for there seemed not much chance for the first time this chunky, determined Irishman. With the grace of a cat and the swift striking power of a panther, McLarnin lashed his right to the jaw. Goldstein toppled over the lower strand of the rope. His body was outside on the edge of the ring, his legs draped over the ropes. Somehow, at the count of nine, the Jewish lad hauled himself back into the ring and to his feet. He wobbled back, jabbing McLarnin. The baby-faced one coolly forced his prey to the center of the ring, drove his left, then the right to the head and Ruby toppled over backward. Goldstein took the final count of ten prone on his back and had to be carried to his corner by Referee Lou Magnolia.

Goldstein, a hero in spite of his checkered career, received an ovation before the match that dwarfed the noisy reception for the popular Irishman and rivalled the outburst for Jack Dempsey last Monday night. The crowd roared tribute to Ruby's gameness but was on its feet at the finish yelling for the "kill" by the baby-faced one. Sentiment yielded to the power of punch.

Seldon has McCarrin looked more effective as a boxer or a puncher. Jimmy was pitted against one of the fastest, cleverest ringmen New York has produced since the days of Benny Leonard, with the added threat of a sure puncher, out of the crowd to finish. He outmaneuvered and outboxed Ruby. He took Goldstein's hardest wallop without yielding an inch. There was a quick flash of that doomed feeling in Ruby's face in the middle of the first round when he shot his right three times to McCarrin's chin without result. McCarrin's victory established him beyond doubt as the outstanding contender for the welter title now held by Jackie Fields. The halfway for this title scrap can now go on with the customers' approval.

DENNEY DROPS SIX FROM CAGE SQUAD

St. Mitchell Reports Again Despite Patch Over One Eye

Six members of the Lawrence college basketball squad have been dropped from the varsity by Coach A. C. Denney who now has 14 players who he expects will carry the Viking banner the remainder of the season.

Men dropped are Irving Jackola, who became ineligible, C. Miller, P. Miller, Campbell, Stegach, and Howie. Hines, Strange and Yarrick were dropped from the new men on the team were retained. Hales is a guard, the other two men are forwards.

The Viking squad was now constituted made up of Biggers, Vanderbloemen, Steinhagen, Rasmussen, Strang, and Remmel forwards; Schenker, Laird, and Trunkle centers; Savick, Pierce, Fisch, Hales and St. Mitchell guards.

The boys do not question as to a few days ago despite the fact he still has a patch over one eye, the result of an injury suffered during football season. The big guard apparently believes the injury soon will heal and intends getting in action.

Saturday the Viking quintet went through a regular game with the Klamath Club team of Klamath. The game was played at the new gym and was arranged by Coach Denney because of the poor opposition. Milton furnished the Vikes last Wednesday night.

San Francisco—Young Corbett, Fresno, welterweight, outpointed Tommy Elms, Phoenix, (10).

THIS ALSO EXPLAINS WHY MR. SHIRES TOOK UP THE BOXING GAME

Chicago—(AP)—Charles Arthur (The Great) Shires wants $15,000 to play first base for the White Sox next summer—or else.

Shires, whose contract last year, called for $3,500, demands the big increase, or, he declares, the American league will lose its greatest first baseman.

"When I beat a few more of these alleged fighters, I will be ready to talk terms with Mr. Comiskey," he said. "I want $15,000 to play that first sack for the White Sox and if I don't get it, I will keep on fighting."

Shires' contract last year called for $3,500, but by the time I got through paying fines, and salary was deducted for suspensions, I didn't have more than $5,000 left, and I've got to get it back."

COLLEGE BASEBALL LACKS SUPPORT

Connie Mack Says Players Lose Interest Without Campus Backing

Princeton, N. J.—(AP)—Connie Mack, manager of the world champion Princeton student athletes, published today.

Mack said that professional baseball's general ban of golf among ball players was due to a fear of the same thing—that the players would begin to talk of nothing but golf. The physical damage of golf, he added, amounts only to leg fatigue which is not serious.

WE TOLD YOU SO

IN the year 1926 we advertised "All Electric" Radios, and advised the purchase of these in place of the "Battery" models.

Over four months ago we advertised Screen Grid Radios having FOUR Screen Grid Tubes and using a Screen Grid Tube as a "detector." — Sometime ago a tube manufacturer stated that "it is entirely possible that this year's Screen Grid set will not work with next year year's Screen Grid tubes." Now since the Screen Grid tube is being made stronger, many radio manufacturers find that the above statement is true and will likely discount their sets.

Let us repeat: If you want a screen grid receiver, be sure that the "detector" is a screen grid tube.

THE LUXURY HUSBAND

CHAPTER 29
AN IRONIC LAUGH
INVITATIONS were already issued for the grand ball which Barbara intended reopening her Long Island home. A large large ballroom was being erected expressly for the purpose.

The ball, itself, was to be in the nature of a circus party. The interior of the hall was to be turned into the replica of a circus tent, the guests being asked on the invitations to come in circus costumes. At first Barbara threw herself into the preparations with a sort of nervous frenzy, supervising everything personally. But soon she collapsed under the strain of it. Thus it happened that before the final date most of the arrangements fell into Henderson's hands.

Thus he managed to convey to the world at large that a definite understanding existed between himself and Barbara. It was regrettable, though true, that in the weeks immediately preceding the ball he borrowed extensively, on this supposition, money of which he stood urgently in need. As to maneuvering a loan, he found certain gentlemen in the city only too ready to oblige him. The wealthy Mrs. Lowther's name had been too frequently connected with his of late for them to believe that the risk they took was greater than its usual.

Barbara had instructed Henderson to spare no expense. Therefore it was not out of the ordinary that he should make a bid for the services of the Golden Symphony Eight. He interviewed Bill personally and the offer being far too tempting to be refused, Bill readily vouched for himself and his boys.

"We hired out, night of the 15th," he informed Ray that evening. "It's a hall at some millionaire home on Long Island—a circus costume affair—masked, of course, $200 apiece—that isn't so dusty. A queer sort of duck he was, frightfully English, name was Henderson—"

"What?" Ray had swung round suddenly on his heel. "What's up, Ray? Know the fellow?" "Yes—yes—" Ray had turned away from him towards the window. Bill fancied that he heard him laughing to himself in a cracked, unpleasant sort of way. "Got anything against him, Ray? Think we'll get our money, all right?" "Sure. You'll get your money."

Then it was that Bill noticed the unusual whiteness of the younger man's face.

"You see," Ray explained a moment later, "I happen to suspect the fellow's acting for my wife." "For your wife?" Then a moment later, "Now, I come to think of it, the name he gave was that of a Mrs. Lowther. Look here, Ray. We don't go if you'd rather we didn't. Even if we do, there's no need for your going." Ray didn't answer directly. So Barbara and Henderson were as thick as ever. It hurt that, ever while he told himself he had deserted her, practically throwing her right into Henderson's arms. Still he had imagined she would soon have used of the Englishman. That, again, was her affair. But it was his whether or not he should go with the boys that night. His first impulse had been to refuse outright, but gradually, as he thought of it, an ironical link in his sense of humor urged him to accept. Amusing to find himself a hired musician at his own wife's ball. But deep in his heart he knew that he was impelled to go mainly by a strong desire to see Barbara again. He wanted to watch her dance—to hear her laughter.

But Ray was unconsciously aware that Rita's gaze that night was assumed. From then on the true state of affairs began slowly to dawn upon him. (Copyright, Dai Press)

Disaster climaxes Barbara's lavish house-warming. Continue the story Monday.

BURIAL LIST HIS FAREWELL
Instead of preaching a farewell sermon when he resigned from the church at Bishopstoke, England, recently, Rev. Edmund Hancock read from the pulpit a list of 155 persons he had buried since his institution in 1922. At intervals during his reading verses of hymns were sung, and the whole took 20 minutes. "One hundred eighty-five burials in seven and a half years! What a responsibility for me to face!" remarked the clergyman. "How far have my actions helped these people during life?"

MEN O' WAR

This striking picture shows plans taking off from the deck of the U. S. Saratoga. The shadow is that of Colonel Lindbergh.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of articles on the strength of the U. S. navy, especially as compared with that of Great Britain. The articles are of especial interest in view of the approaching naval arms limitation conference at London.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
 Aircraft carriers are the largest and most expensive naval vessels afloat. They are not heavily armored, but quite fast, being capable of 33 knots. They are comparatively vulnerable and in actual combat would be kept in the center of the fleet, well protected while they sent out planes for bombing or fighting planes. Types vary. Under the Washington Treaty the United States and Britain are limited to 135,000 tons of carriers. We have three in service with a tonnage of 75,000, the British five aggregating 93,000 tons. Britain is building a sixth of 22,500 tons and Congress has authorized a fourth for our navy of 14,600 tons. Our giant carriers Lexington and Saratoga are larger than the British type. Each carries about 70 planes and 1200 men, including a flying complement of about 500. Each has a tonnage of 33,000 apiece. length 888 feet and beam 165. The Lexington cost $44,000,000 and the Saratoga $41,000,000. Operation costs for each are about $3,000,000 a year. To provide a mobile flying field where planes may both take off and land, the funnel, mast and bridge of these ships are placed on the starboard side. This construction is different from our other carrier, the old 12,700-ton Langley, which has an upper hangar deck overall. The Lexington and Saratoga have eight 8-inch guns and 12 5-inch guns.

CHICAGO HAS LESS THAN ITS SHARE OF CRIMINALS. CLAIM

Chicago—(P)—Prof. August Vollmer, president of the National Association of Police Chiefs, estimates there are one million criminals in the country, and that Chicago has less than its share of them. The former Berkeley, Calif., police chief who now is head of the police research department of the University of Chicago was addressing the Chicago Press club. "There are 101,000 legal regulations and 100,000 legal institutions affecting every citizen," Professor Vollmer said. Probably one person out of every ten has violated one or more of these laws at some time or other, he believes. He held the failure of law-abiders to keep abreast of changing conditions responsible for crime conditions. He said the police forces should be made up of intelligent men. About 50 per cent, in his opinion, have no business being policemen. "If insurance figures are any criterion," he added, "Chicago has considerably less crime than other big cities."

FARMERS IN GOOD POSITION TODAY, BABSON REPORTS

Agricultural Sections Least Damaged by Stock Market Crash

Babson Park, Mass.—The sun is always shining on business somewhere. The industrial East is clouded but the agricultural West seems to be in for a spell of fair weather. It appears that the farmers were very little hurt by the stock market crash. Most of the damage was done in the large cities of the country and in the thickly settled industrial areas of the East. As we travel from East to West we cannot help but notice a more optimistic feeling as we go. To be sure, grain prices slumped with stocks at first, but have since made a good recovery. Total farm income for 1929 will be at least as large as in 1928 and may be larger. Unquestionably, as between the various sections of our population, the farmers are now in a preferred position. They hold the trump cards, for the following reasons:

During a period of industrial decline men leave the cities and turn to the farms. This gives the farmers better help at lower wages. At the same time it tends to relieve industrial unemployment. Second, in declining industrial activity prices of manufactured goods are lower which enables farmers to buy at lower prices. That is, when business is declining competition is keen and industrial prices are forced lower. Agricultural prices, on the other hand, are not so much influenced by domestic competition. With my world crops lower than a year ago, it will be easier to maintain agricultural prices than it will industrial prices.

In the third place, domestic consumption of wheat and corn decreases per capita as prosperity increases, and increases per capita as prosperity decreases. When people have plenty to spend they consume more expensive and fancy goods and cut down on staples. When in comes fall off they then return to the cheaper staple products which are the mainstay of our great agricultural West.

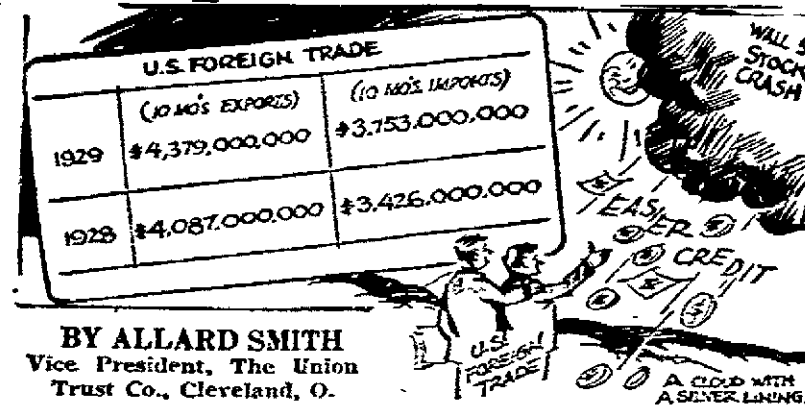

The fourth advantage which the farmer has over the city man during a period of declining industry is that his children tend to remain at home. This is a powerful social advantage. It raises the morale of the farming communities and makes much better citizens of the rising generation. It decreases the social and economic problems of the farmers. It is an established fact that usually during an industrial boom the farmers are least prosperous. The spread between what the farmer has to buy and what he has to sell is lessened and he is put on a basis of economic equality with the rest of the country.

VALUES SHOULD IMPROVE
 The farmer had his taste of inflation back in 1920 and he has suffered for it ever since. On the basis of inflated prices for farm products he speculated in farm land. Everyone knows the trouble he got into when land values crashed. For eight years he has been struggling to get out from under the burden of debt which that wild farm land speculation had laid on him. Now it looks as though he were succeeding. If the turn in farm values has not already come, at least the decline has been greatly slowed up. There were only half as many farm foreclosures last year as in the year before, indicating much less financial distress in agricultural sections. Moreover, last year the Government index showed the smallest annual loss in the value of farm lands since the peak prices of 1920. The drop from March 1928 to March 1929, in the price per acre, averaged less than 1 per cent. Such lands are now on approximately the same price level that they were in 1917. They are now 15 per cent above the level before the War, which compares with 70 per cent above in 1920. Obviously, good farm lands have been well deflated, and should improve.

EASIER RATES HELP
 The return of money to the West from the financial centers of the East should have a beneficial effect on farm credit. Also the substantial aid being extended by the Federal Farm Board to co-operatives will relieve financial distress and tend to stabilize farm values. The only danger is that the Board may succumb to political pressure by the Agricultural Bloc and resort to virtual price-fixing. Such price fixing would mean that every farmer would grow twice as much next year as he did this year, and the resulting overproduction would swamp the market. Farmers are only human like the rest of us. Assured of a profitable year, they would be virtually sure to raise as much wheat, corn, or cotton as they possibly could. It is to be sincerely hoped that the Farm Board will steer clear of this pitfall, and will stand firm on its announced policy of extending financial aid for orderly marketing and not in any way attempt to fix prices.

BONDS ATTRACTIVE
 From the improved farm outlook of view there are some distinct bargains in the best Joint Stock Land Bank bonds. These can be bought to yield about 6 per cent; they are free from taxation; and are secured by first mortgages on producing farms. The disastrous situation which resulted in severe difficulties for several years ago has now been pretty well cleaned up. These banks are now under very capable Government supervision. In summary, I would say that the brighter outlook for agriculture should have beneficial effects in at least five directions. First, it means that sales may improve in the farming districts; second, that the farmers themselves will benefit from increased farm values and prices of

U. S. FOREIGN TRADE IS SURE TO IMPROVE

BY ALLARD SMITH
 Vice President, The Union Trust Co., Cleveland, O.

ONE of the most favorable factors in the outlook for American business is the improved prospect for foreign trade. Greater sales of the products of American farms and factories to consumers in other countries are expected to result from the easier credit conditions which have followed the stock market break. Such an increase would help to offset any decline in domestic sales. High money rates in the United States over recent months tended to restrict the granting of credit to foreign buyers. This of course resulted in a reduction of their purchases. Present credit conditions are more favorable, and larger exports are likely. Actually in October sales of American goods abroad totaled $530,000,000. This was a sharp gain, partly seasonal, over September, when the total was $442,000,000. Imports gained somewhat also, being $392,000,000 against $351,000,000 in the preceding month. During the first 10 months of 1929, exports were valued at $4,753,000,000, compared with imports of $3,779,000,000. It is notable that such expansion as there was of foreign sales in 1929 resulted chiefly from greater sales of manufactured goods. During the first 10 months, foreign sales of finished goods gained 13 per cent, while crude materials dropped off 9 per cent.

AMERICAN BANKERS WATCHING GERMAN FINANCIAL CRISIS

Condition of Affairs Is Indicated in Chancellor Before Reichstag

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
 (Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press)
 Wall Street, New York—Financial review and outlook—Deep interest was taken in American banking circles Friday in the sensational statements made before the German Reichstag by Chancellor Mueller concerning the crisis in Germany's financial affairs. The exposure of the low state of the finances of Germany may have convinced the effect of changing temporarily the attitude of these bankers toward marking further short term loans or bank credits to the Reich. These have been under negotiations and also a $15,000,000 one year loan at 7 1/2 per cent to the city of Berlin which was to have been offered in this market last week but has been deferred. Berlin cables Friday indicated that the rate of this loan will be determined next Monday. It is said to have been opposed by Dr. Schaech, president of the Reichsbank.

MANAGEMENT SEEN
 The present credit troubles of Germany grow out of the mismanagement of government finances covering the past few years. There has been an extravagance in expenditures both directly by the nation and in permitting advances to municipalities for undertakings that have brought no profit to the borrowers and a heavy increase in their annual fixed charges. St. Parker Gilbert, the American agent for reparations, has severely criticized the policy in his annual reports and brought down the wrath of some sections of the German people for doing so. The situation today is almost exactly as he had predicted, with Germany in such straits that it is reported that application has been made to Mr. Gilbert to use his best offices to assist in carrying the government over the end of the year with a short term loan.

With the sharp decline in interest rates here, American bankers recently have been receiving applications from many German sources to extend them banking credit. These have already been negotiated in some volume. It has been necessary to resort to this method of financing on account of the condition of the market for German dollar bonds, especially those of municipalities, mortgage banks and industrial corporations, which are all at a heavy discount from issue prices. LOANS RECOVER
 The German government lost 7 per cent loan after a break of several points during the November slump in all foreign obligations, had recovered and this week sold 1 1/2 points above the redemption price. The current yield on all other German dollar bonds is so high as to make further long term issues impossible to the German borrower. One phase of the present crisis in Germany is the effect it may have on the establishment of the bank of international settlements and on the program of selling the first installment of reparations bonds in this country. It had been hoped that this might be promoted in the farm lands; third, that these lines of business which sell to the farmers may have better business during the next year or two; fourth, that the investor is offered good prices in sound Joint Stock Land Bank bonds; and fifth, that the social and moral welfare of the nation will be greatly helped by the economic advancement of the farmer. Our greatest business, moral and spiritual leaders in the past have come from farming homes. Business by the Babson chart now stands at 1 per cent below normal, compared with 6 per cent above normal a year ago.

U. S. HAS MOST OF WORLD POWER SUPPLY
 Boston—(AP)—The national industrial conference board has computed that the United States produces 60 per cent of the world's natural gas. This country also produces, says the same authority, 68 per cent of the crude oil, 33 per cent of the coal, and 33 per cent of the water power. The totals for the world in 1928 are given as 1,450,000,000 short tons of coal, 1,322,000,000 barrels of crude oil, 42 gallons each 1,640,000,000, 000 cubic feet of natural gas and 35,000,000 water horsepower.

TRAIN OF BUSINESS IS BACK ON TRACKS WITH WHEELS OILED

Speed Is Slower Than Before Stock Crash, but It's Increasing

BY J. C. ROYLE
 Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press Washington—(CPA)—The train of business is back on the track with speculative hot boxes cooled and the wheels newly lubricated. It would be a mistake to infer that it was running when it struck the faulty joint of stock speculation disaster, but these seem little doubt that it will regain that speed in the immediate future. This is adequately shown by the maintenance of the upward curve of power consumption. The steel mills are picking up steadily and they know there is a tremendous volume of business shortly to be placed. The automobile industry now is busy more with the future than with the past. It now seems certain that 1929 motor vehicle production will exceed 5,000,000 units.

FINISH NEW MODELS
 Today many of the producers are putting the last touches on their new models which will be shown inside of the next fortnight for three weeks. There are manufacturers who do not put out new models at this time of the year and they are holding special exhibitions, with satisfactory results in sales. It is notable that more than a million cars have been sold about this time of year. Undoubtedly by the industry has received a stimulus from the announcement of sharp cuts in construction machinery announced by one manufacturer this week. These price recessions extended to the farm machinery field. Lumber markets in the south reported an increase of the week of 12.3 per cent in new business but production still is in excess of new orders.

CURTAIN OIL OUTPUT
 The oil industry is gradually curtailing production as the year draws to a close but gasoline stocks on hand are heavy. Sales of industrial alcohol and anti-freeze mixtures for automobile radiators have taken a big jump. The drug industry is still prospering widely and no anxiety is felt by the cosmetic and toilet article manufacturers over the fact that there is considerable discussion of a tax on their articles. This discussion has solidified into a bill now before the Tennessee legislature.

Sales on non-ferrous metals are still being sharply restricted because consumers are confident they can obtain the necessary supplies any time they want them without danger of any immediate or sharp increase in price. Despite this the demand for lead and copper is fairly satisfactory. With the last forecast of the cotton crop out of the way, cotton growers and textile manufacturers are in a position to determine their future policies and to make purchases. The dairy industry is at a high state of efficiency on both the production and distribution side and satisfactory profits are now being returned. Demand for silk fabrics is undiminished, but the wool industry is still depressed.

The bureau of the census shows that the earnings of investors in American business in the month of November were decidedly better than a year ago. Earnings and interest payments on business investment for November, 1928, were $417,629,000. For November, 1929, they totaled $514,450,000. Bond sales showed an increase from $221,460,000 to $291,034,000. Sales of stocks however declined from 115,455,000 shares to 72,455,000. Business failures showed a drop of 42. Mail order sales of two selected firms increased approximately $8,000,000 over the month for last year and the total business of the four biggest mail order stores chains rose from $48,877,000 to $49,874,000. Check payments increased over $7,000,000. Brokers' loans fell off from $2,000,000 while the government's gross debt dropped over a billion.

INSULIN MONOPOLY IS CHARGED BY GERMANS

Berlin—(AP)—Charges that the German insulin committee is encouraging a manufacturing monopoly of that valuable remedy by its refusal to test a new production method which is said to reduce its cost by 50 per cent have been made in medical circles here. The committee has been subjected to severe criticism because it is said to have granted four German chemical works the exclusive right to manufacture the product. The committee is further alleged to have promised the four manufacturers that it would refuse to test insulin products submitted by competitors. Critics of the committee contend that it has no right to encourage a monopoly to the detriment of thousands of sufferers from diabetes. The committee's attitude is denounced also because the new insulin production method was discovered by a recognized authority. If it were merely a question of an addition of a new preparation to the four now being manufactured, it is pointed out, the committee's attitude would be comprehensible. But since it is in fact, a new process of manufacture, involving a saving to the consumer, the committee's refusal even to investigate is denounced.
